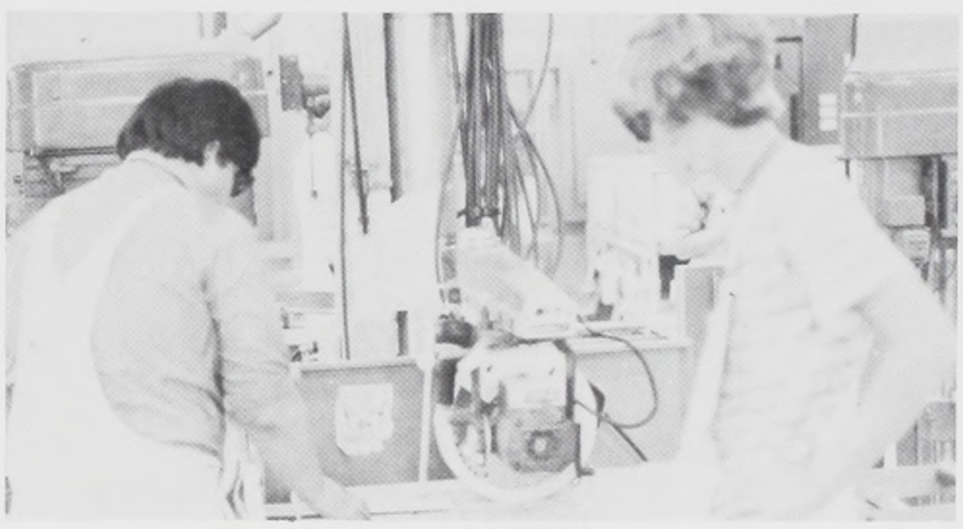
Inflation Pinches Shop Supplies

Costs of running Benson shops advanced greatly this year according to Mr. Aki Nishimura, vice principal.

To give an idea of what the increases have been, a cost comparison chart such as the one below probably tells the story better than anything.

Item	Percent Increases
Belt and Disc Sander	28.6
Table Saw	9.9
Gasoline	93.0
Fuel Oil	177.0
Masking Tape	13.0
Thumb Tacks	29.0
Steel	50.0
Press Brake	73.0
Nails	54.0
Hand Tools	20.0
Welding Scrap	100.0
Plastic Polyester Resin	103.0
Roofing Materials	100.0
Overalls	57.0
Aviation Fabric	100.0

PRE-PLANNING



Projects Express Personalities

Welding Teaches Basic Skills

Welding is not a major shop but it teaches skills needed in other shops. Only sophomores are found in welding.

The purpose of the welding shop is to give students a better understanding of welding - a skill which can be used later in life.

Equipment used are arc, gas, mig, and tig welders. This equipment helps students make flat welds, vertical welds, horizontal welds, and various gas welds.

There is a big selection of projects a student can do. However, a student only has to do one of these, after which he can do the projects he wants to.

Teaching this shop is Mr. John Milovich.

Metal Tool Use, Safety Stressed

Freshman Metal Fabrication is the shop where students learn the use of tin snips, the spot welder, ruler, scribe, riveter, punch, beverley shears, hand brakes and other related machinery.

Shop safety and efficient use of the equipment is continually stressed. The freshmen are required to make a square box, a box with special dimensions, a Pittsburgh lock box, a dust pan and a tool box.

Major sheet metal shop is different from any other shop because a student can start at the beginning of any quarter and not be behind since a new unit is started each quarter.

Many of the layout skills learned in sheet metal are of value in other shop functions.

Plastics Allows Exploration

The Plastics Shop was headed by Mr. Gerald Waterbury and was a non-major shop. Over the summer Mr. Waterbury worked with a group of vocational teachers to up-grade the course offering.

Plastics I was a course designed to provide sophomore students with an introduction to plastics, This course allowed the student to explore plastics, their origins, properties, design, and processing techniques. It will be of value to students who plan to enter into any of the varied facets of industry, most of which use plastics materials in some form. This course provided the basic foundation for any future study of plastics.

Total time for this course is $63\frac{1}{2}$ hours. Laboratory experiences occupied 60% of this time, with the remaining 40% given for theory study.

Machinists Gain Valuable Skills

Lathes, drill presses, grinders and milling machines are the backbone of a growing nation and to help supply machinists for the trade, Benson maintains three complete machine shops. In these shops over 680 students learn about basic tool use and the necessary basic technical knowledge about metals.

Freshmen take machine for nine weeks so all freshmen gain some experience with the machines. Junior and senior majors spend four periods a day.

During the summer five shop teachers met to revise the machine curriculum. One of their concerns was to evaluate a package learning system. They also worked out a system by which the library could handle the packages.

Giant Pan Cast

Foundry is closely related to pattern making. Majors are accepted only by the permission of the instructor. The student will increase his knowledge in sand molding, mold construction and coremaking. Also he will perfect his skill working with hand tools. This course is also useful to the student interested in an engineering career.

Some related shops are Patternmaking and Welding. This shop is headed by Mr. Frank Williams.

Shop Stresses Precision Skills

The majors in foundry and pattern worked on an enormous frying pan this year. The pan was about six feet wide and looked like an average frying pan used by Paul Bunyan.

Foundry I is a basic nine week course so sophomores become more familiar with basic metal casting. There are five units covered during this period. The basic concepts of the course are presented through movies, lectures, and demonstrations.

Mr. Joseph Perry, likes the new program for juniors in Pattern 5-6. He commented, "the curriculum for the juniors has been changed to make it challenging and more informative for the students."

One good thing for these students is that there is an excellent opportunity in the job field, after one majors in foundry.

Inquiry Builds Skills

Fluid Power Shop Grows

Fluid Power is a program designed for the future technician or for the student who desires to be an engineer. Fluid power students learn the necessary theory to plan and design fluid power systems. They also learn to install, repair, and maintain fluid power components. Mr. Thomas Herring heads up this shop in Benson's D-Wing. Fluid Power is a widely expanding field for those interested in hydraulic systems. This shop is an excellent choice for a major.

It is the newest major shop at Benson. It was an introductory shop for other shops but the 73-74 school year was it's first year as a major shop. There were only six majors the first year but now the number is 24. One can only see continued growth in this youngest of the Benson shops.

Auto Majors Get Experience

Benson Tech's Automotive shop is one of the best equipped high school automotive shops in the state. Mr. Howard Gunderson is the head of the automotive department at Benson.

Juniors and seniors majoring in automotive shop take the class the full year, while freshman take only a nine week grading period of the class.

Even the freshmen are exposed to the basic systems of a car such as fuel, carburation, electrical, and ignition systems. Students majoring in automotive shop go into more depth such as engine overhaul, and body maintenance.

A new field that was added this year was air conditioning servicing.

Top Aviation Training Offered

Rebuilding airplanes, such as an Aeronca and a Continental C 85-12, were just some of the projects done by Mr. William Nichol's Aviation Shop. Other projects included repairing landing gear, and installing an engine in a jet.

Planned for the year was a trip to the Portland Air Base and a trip to Boeing in Seattle. They also went to Salem to see Army Aviation seniors in action. Later in the year they will take a flight with the Oregon Pilot's Association.

The Aviation Shop at Benson is a better course than most colleges offer. After a student passes his class he is permitted to pass his private pilot's exam without any further training in the field.

Enthusiasm High in 'E' Wing

BELOW: Alan Keser, (12), wires a motor generator in Electric. BELOW RIGHT: LeLand Slaughter, (12), checks batteries on electric car. CENTER RIGHT: Larry Staton, (12), and John Schroeder, (12), provide guidance as the electric car is taken from the shop. CENTER LEFT: Matt Rand, (12), and Paul Ginader, (12), develop prints in Mr. Small's Photography lab. FAR LEFT: Dan Neal, (12), and Mike Marshall, (12), watch paper feed through offset press. TOP RIGHT: Student sets justified type on Friden typesetter. TOP RIGHT: Four Building Construction students watch as Mr. John Murakami, shop teacher, measures several 2 x 4's. TOP LEFT: Electronics senior studies panel for work sheet.

Art Is Popular

Mr. Donald Richardson keeps art going as strong as ever at Tech. The elective class in general art has been taught by Mr. Richardson for seven periods a day.

Individuality is stressed in the course in hopes to spark a creative flair. Atmosphere, an important part of the class, is aided by music.

Photography Skills Important

"Twenty-one years from now I'll still be here!" says Mr. David Small who is in his nineteenth year as a photo teacher at Tech.

Photography is available to sophomores taking the graphic arts sequence, or as an elective shop. Juniors and Seniors can take the class as a regular elective.

Picture taking and film developing are among the many things which are studied in the course which has over 110 students registered during all periods of the day.

Two Printing Methods Taught

The Print Shop had an enrollment of 28 seniors and 35 juniors, part of the Graphic Communication Department at Benson.

The Print Shop again this year printed all the school's forms, Tech show and 49er posters and programs, excuse slips, Tech Pep, and the Tech Notes.

Mr. Martin Allen, the head Graphic Communications Department, completed his eighth and final year at Tech. He retired at the end of this year. He was in charge of letterpress area in the major shop. This year several seniors majored in this area of the shop during the year.

Mr. Tom Veatch supervises students working on presses, camera, stripping and paste-up.

Electricians Learn Basics

In the freshman Electric Shop students learn to make crystal radios, magnetizers, electric pencils and buzzers. Students also bring from home electrical appliances and other objects to work on. There are a number of tools such as ohm meters, screwdrivers, pliers and other electrical tools to help students with projects.

Benson's Electric Car was a project of majors in previous years and students usually get to drive it. This year the majors took apart the car and improved it by installing foot pedals, an amp meter, a volt meter, and a battery rack. They also made an electric motor rewind and did some trouble shooting on magnetic controls.

Building Course Accents Safety

Building Construction is a two year course for juniors and seniors planning to continue on to college in technical fields relating to building construction.

The course objectives are to enable the student to have an educational base in building construction. Safety is also a major factor involved in the hazardous course of building construction.

At the start of the year students are orientated into the use, safety, and maintenance of tools and machines to be used during the year.

The students are then required to make projects such as a tool box, saw horse or a joint project with the knowledge they have obtained through orientation.

ABOVE: John Virnig, (11), cuts surplus scrap pieces into proper size for a fireplace. CENTER BOTTOM: Building Construction crew jokes around before moving floor and ceiling panels to outside storage. BOTTOM LEFT: Steve Wick, (11), uses table saw to cut tongue in groove in piece of wood for one of the required projects. LEFT MIDDLE: Jeff Swanstrom, (11), saws a plywood joint for a project. TOP LEFT: James Tercek, (11), works from a saw horse while doing one of the eight required projects. CENTER TOP: Mr. Sterling Borquist, Building Construction teacher, helps students figure out where to put panels prior to being used for the house for the Tech Show.

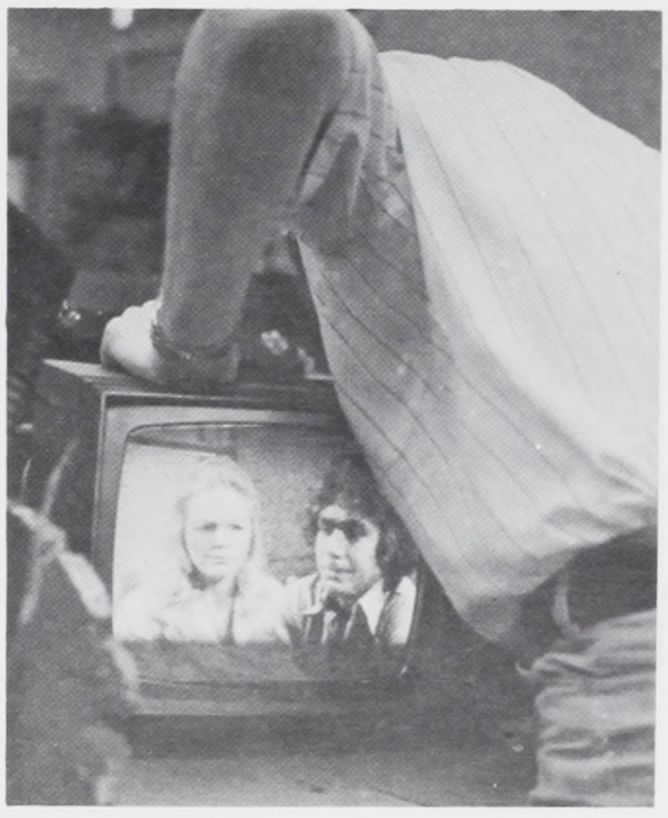
Electronics Is Popular

Electronics is a very wide field and here at Benson the instructors try to cover all bases.

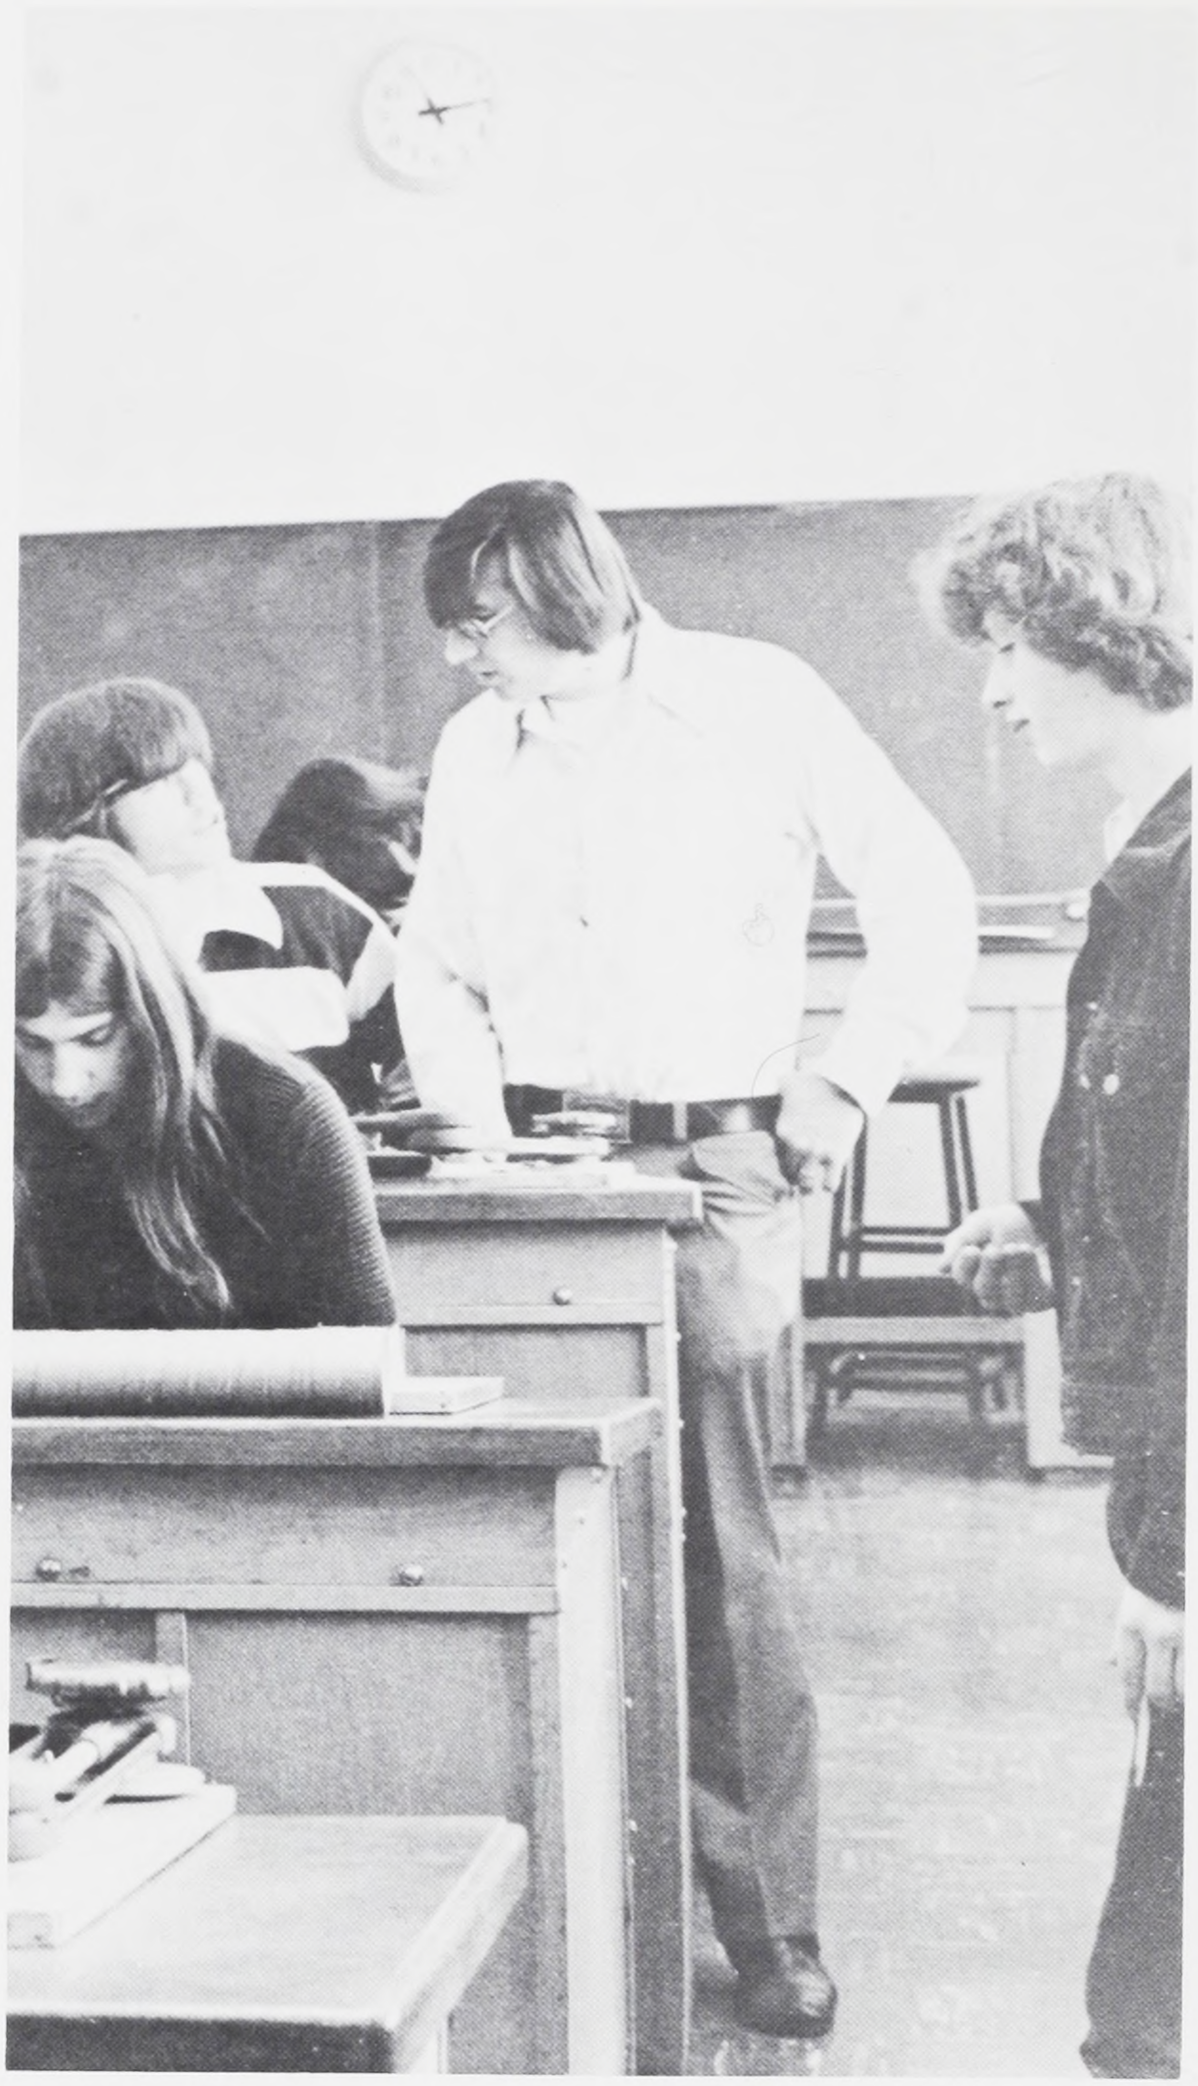
Electronic students gain knowledge in such fields as T.V. repair, electrical engineering, radio and telephone repair.

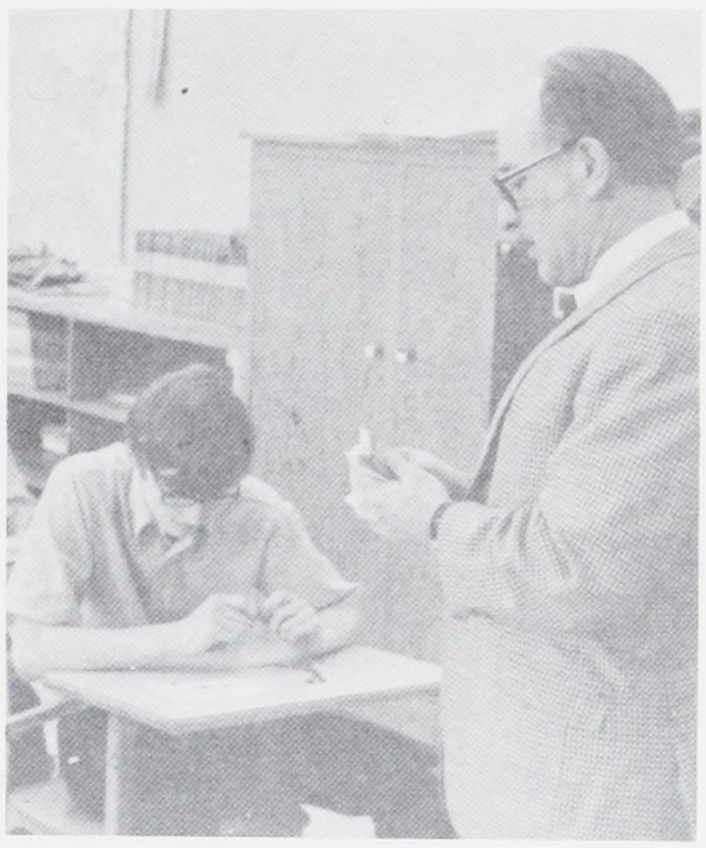
Many Benson Electronic majors have been hired by tektronix upon graduation. Mr. Ruben Nyberg heads up this shop in Benson's E-Wing.

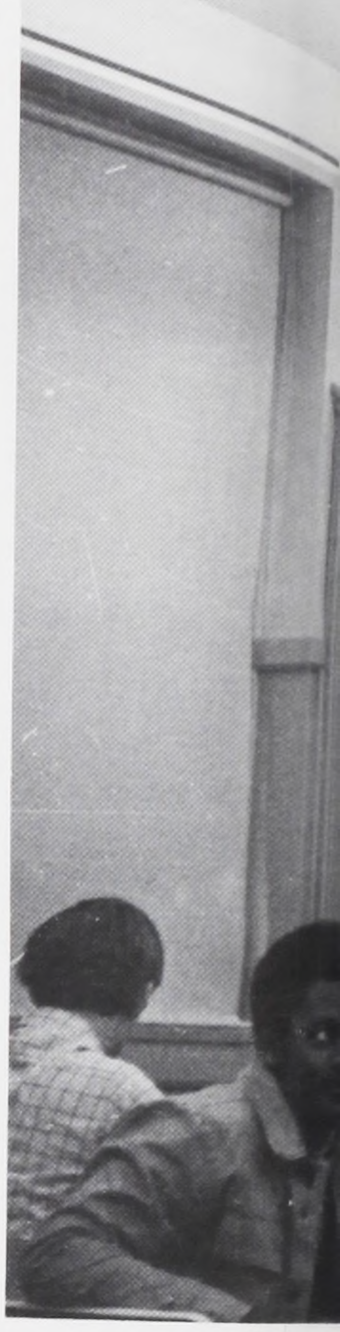
Electronics, is an important part of Benson's curriculum. This class prepares the student for a growing field of work where there is a satisfaction in what is accomplished.

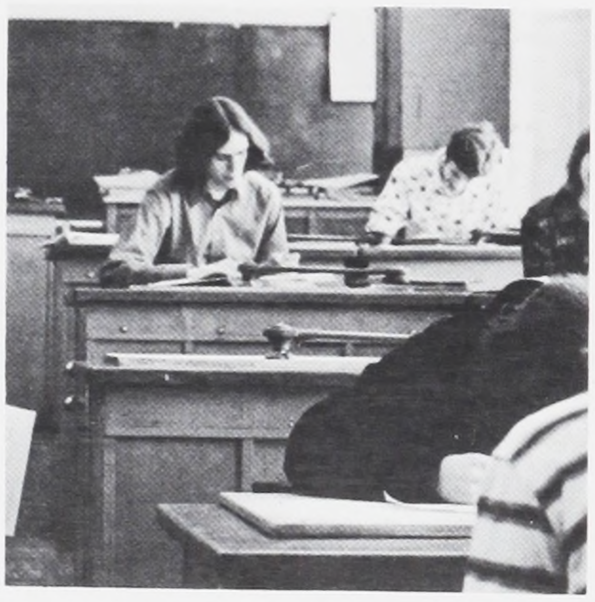


RIGHT: Mr. Ron Currier, drafting teacher, explains drafting assignment to Mike Landstrom, (10). UPPER RIGHT: Mrs. Norma Faulkner's fourth period English class listens as Mrs. Faulkner (NOT IN PICTURE) explains reading assignment. CENTER: Mr. Michael Lopez, Health and P.E. instructor, looks up as photographer snaps his picture. FAR RIGHT: Kathleen Dunn (10), daydreams while Richard Weidlich (10), studies blackboard. BOTTOM RIGHT: Varsity gymnast performs for photographer during practice. CENTER BOTTOM: Mr. Robert Veley, German teacher, explains exercises. LEFT: Casual photograph of Mr. Currier's fourth period drafting class. BELOW: Second year German students, Brent Dahl, (10), studies worksheet while Mr. Veley and his class play word game.

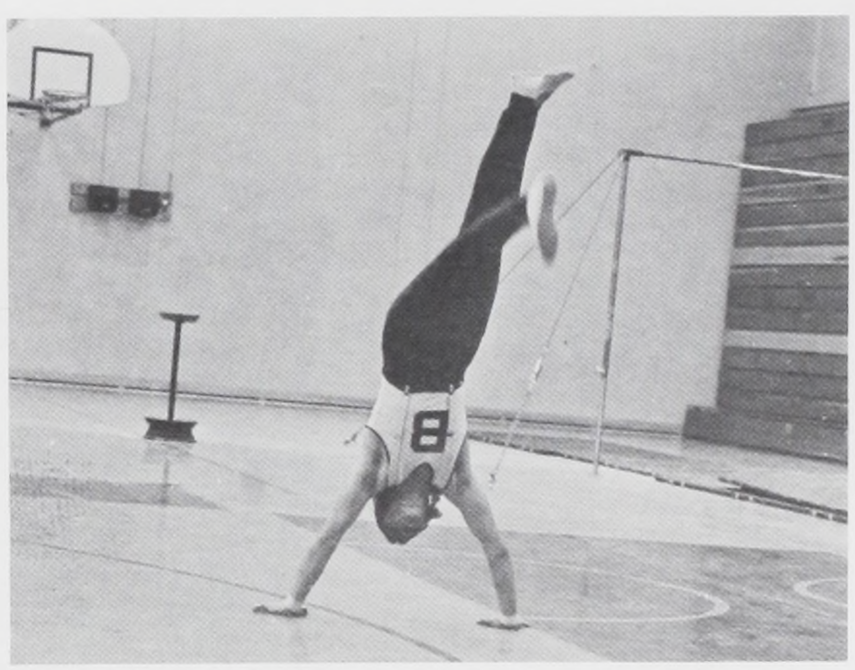


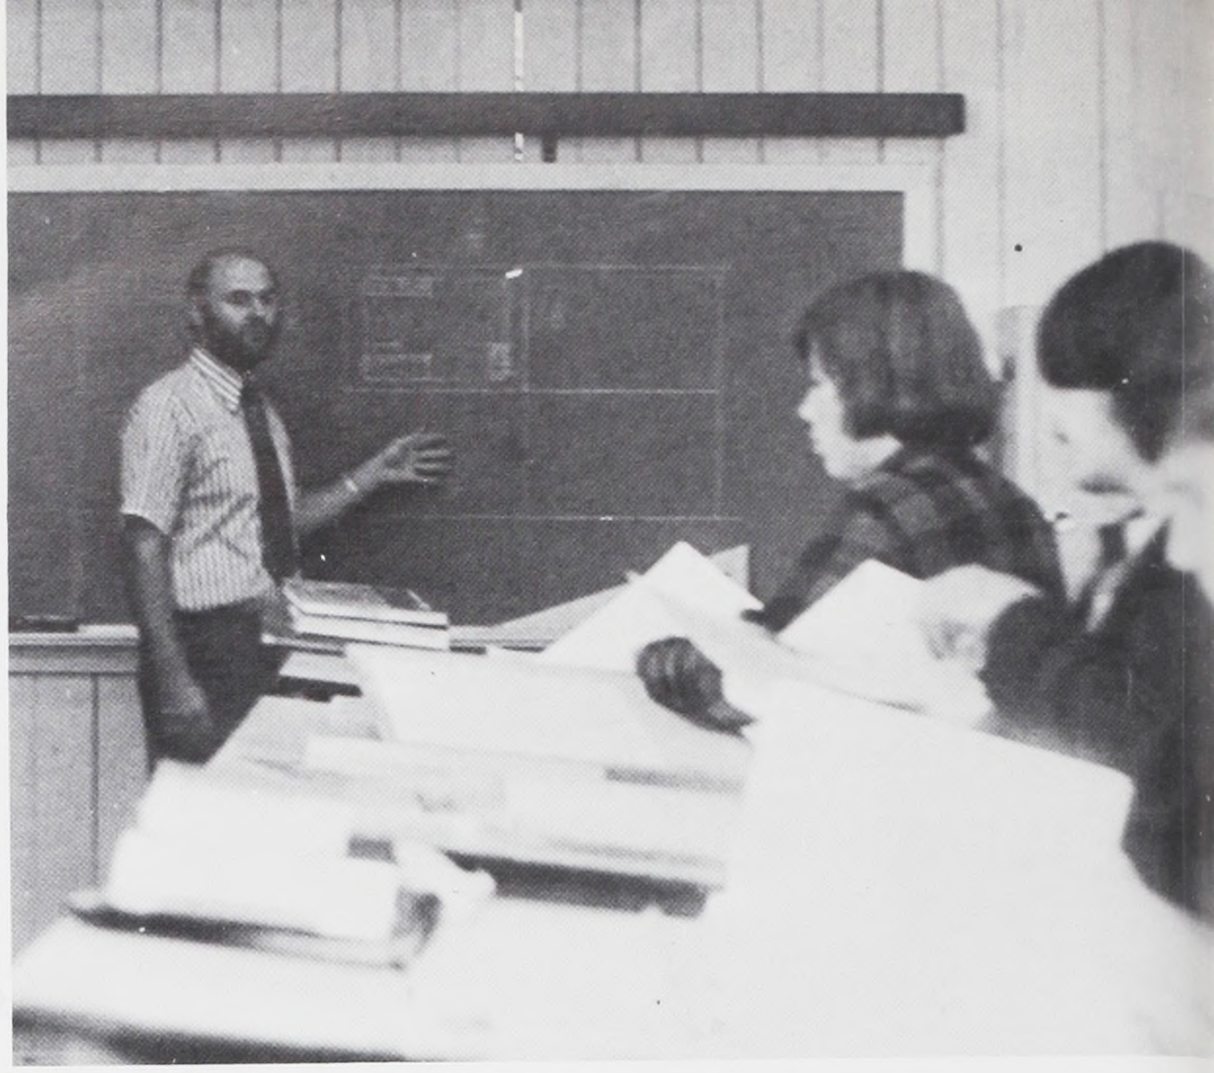






'G' Wing Personalities





Drawing Basic Requirement

Drafting is a required course for all sophomores. In this course the student learns all of the basic concepts of drafting. After some practice and skill is achieved, students are given the chance to draw plans for a structure, be it a home, garage, etc. This class is open as a major to any or all students interested in it. Drafting is the single most important part of all shop areas. It is needed in every phase of construction. The basics are an introduction in to this amazing field. The option to continue is up to the student.

Majors are taught the more technical aspects and most of them are quite satisfied with their selection. Architectural drafting is one of the most widely taught classes at Benson. Almost all of the entire G-Wing, and much of the Foundry wing is used for drafting.

Office Helps Students

In the Work Experience office all the people did their best to find jobs for students who desire them. Students were allowed work credit for the jobs in which they were employed.

The Work Experience office is now in its seventh year. Mr. Robert White, the coordinator for the office, has done a fine job according to the students.

The office posts job offers during the school year on a bulletin board.

At the helm was Mr. Harold Andersen, principal, who saw to the smooth running of the school.

Benson has three Vice principals.

Mr. Paul Benninghoff, administrative vice principal was in charge of student attendance and disciplinary actions.

Assisting him was Mr. Richard Hennessy who was in charge of parking lot secruity for Benson, and aiding in discipline.

Mr. Stan Blair, curriculum vice principal, was in charge of curriculum and set up the schedules for students and faculty.

Mr. Aki Nishimura was in charge of all matters pertaining to shops, budget, safety, materials, and storeroom.

On March 6, 1975 he was seriously injured in an automobile accident and hospitalized. His duties were assumed by Mr. George Nordling for the rest of the year.

Faculty Encourages High Standards

No school is as great as Benson is unless the faculty is cooperative, hard working, and dedicated.

Benson's teachers possess all of these characteristics and do their best to work with students by encouraging them to reach for their highest capabilities.

Shop and academic teachers have programs which coordinate the activities of both programs so the student leaves with a good background in the essentials.

Get Involved to Enjoy School Year

In August school is the farthest from each students' mind.

But, meanwhile, at school, teachers are getting ready for that fateful day in September.

During the last remaining days before school starts teachers get ready for an experience that makes the bravest tremble.

The day comes, and the students parade into the auditorium.

In their respectful classes, teachers wait, and slowly students walk in; the long school year has begun.

Counseling Department Helps Students Grow

The primary role of the counseling department is to seek solutions to the normal student problems and the developmental needs of the youth of Benson for which every counselor is responsible.

The counselors at Benson normally assist young people individually or in groups in solving learning difficulties, in planning career goals, in relating to peers and school personnel, in understanding of self in a positive way, and in growing in the ability to make wise decisions.

Library Rated Tops in City

Benson's library is rated as one of the best high school libraries in the state of Oregon, according to Mr. Harold Arendt, head librarian. As you walk in, you can clearly see why that is. Their advanced equipment surpasses the equipment of any other high school library in the state of Oregon.

It has a wide variety of equipment ranging from a job bank, which gives information on new job openings in Portland, to a newly installed library Security System. This system allows the library staff to detect when a library book is being removed from the library without being properly checked out.

Mr. Harold Arendt, department head and instigator of the system, added that the main object of the system is so the students can have the books when they want to check them out.

The system is being leased on a trial basis, and if purchased, will cost approximately $8,000.

In the future they also hope to add a microfilm camera, and a computer terminal which has already been started upon.

On January 15 Career Day was held for sophomores, seniors, and juniors. Approximately 50 guests were here representing many fields such as architecture, electronics, automotive, building construction, aviation, fluid power, graphic arts, electric, sheet metal, and mechanical drawing.

Mrs. Jones, junior counselor, was in charge. "Considering that this was the first time for a Career Day of this type, I believe it came off quite well" commented Mrs. Dorothy Jones. "We are not sure yet whether the school will sponsor another one", she commented. "we are still evaluating this Career Day."

Sophomores attended morning session periods 2,3,4 and afternoon session periods 7,8,9. Regular classes were held periods 1,5 & 6.

Juniors and seniors attended the sessions through their major shop, therefore they did not miss other regular classes.

There was a luncheon held in the Social Room at noon for the guests and some select students.

Mr. Sterling Borquist, Building Consturction Foreman, talks to seniors in Building Construction about jobs in his field. CENTER: Mr. Ken Hershberger, electric teacher and ex-serviceman, talks with students about career possibilities in the electric industry and in Armed Services. TOP: Representatives from Armed Services discuss points to be lectured on during Career Day.

Secretaries, Clerks Give Popular Aide

As most people suspect school was not the most popular place to go, for teachers as well as students.

One factor which makes it more enjoyable for all is the staff of people who man the Student Services Department.

The job of these people was to make it easier to survive at school.

Mr. Ed Kindle managed the stockroom and his ear-to-ear smile is well-known throughout the school.

Mrs. Nolf, the bookkeeper, kept the accounts in order to insure that students didn't pay a fee five times and then get a bill for it the following year. She also was in charge of the Student Store.

Mrs. Haberman kept the books in the bookroom in order and issued books and audio visual equipment.

Mrs. Viken was the library assistant to Mr. Arendt. She helped the confused find a book whether it be "Conquests Of Gaul" by Julius Caeser, or "The Rise and Fall of Jimmy Hoffa" by Walter Sheridan.

In the counseling office the friendly face of Mrs. McCall, data clerk, greeted all who entered. Unfortunately one of her jobs was to mail out grade warning slips. In spite of this her friendly smile make her very popular with the students.

Office Provides Valuable Service

The main office was the key administrative point in the school.

This included handling problems that teachers had, official business for the school, certain outside school activities and all incoming phone calls for the school.

Headed by Mrs. Kathryn Harris, the hard working secretaries helped make life at Benson pleasant and easier for students and teachers alike.

Making ex-students records available was one of the new tasks these ladies had.

Custodians Use Varied Skills

Headed by Mr. Charles Probert, the 16 man custodial force kept the school in top shape all year. Their jobs included things involved with keeping the school building running properly; like changing light bulbs, cleaning rooms and running the boiler.

They also board up windows and do other temporary jobs to hold things down until school district workers can come and fix electrical problems, and broken windows.

Maintaining the beautiful grounds of the building was also one of their responsibilities.

Cooks Feed Hungry Students

A total of 13 women helped out the Benson cafeteria in '74-'75, headed by Gladys Harris. The hard working women were responsible for preparing food and helping volunteer students serve food to the hungry lunch crowd.

Even though there were many price raises this year, most of which were 5¢ an item, the cafeteria was still about the least expensive place to eat, and students obviously appreciate this as the cafeteria was far from empty every lunch period.

The cafeteria was also open during most of the morning, available for someone to slip down for a quick snack.

Growth Result of Four Years

Many changes have come to pass at Benson since the "Class of '75" first entered the doors four years ago.

Benson transformed from an all male school to a co-educational school and now has 25 girls enrolled.

Besides being a basketball power, Benson gradually grew into a football power also.

Few physical changes to the building have taken place though. Final exams have now been added to the curriculum along with the semester grading system. As usual teachers left and new teachers replaced them.

Many "Class of '75" students never saw all these changes come to pass at Tech as a result of being either forced to leave because of grades or of their own choice. Out of about 600 freshmen, there will be about 365 graduating seniors.

Outdoor School Entices Many

Outdoor School was an opportunity for many students to offer their services as counselors for sixth graders who were given a chance to explore nature as well as camp out for a week.

Counselors are selected very carefully and it was considered a great honor to be selected.

Station Offers Radio Experience

Radio Station K.B.P.S., the voice of the Portland Public Schools for 52 years, is the center for community education and student enrichment.

Thirty Benson students, 12 students from other high schools in the metropolitan area, are involved in the production and planning of daily programs on K.B.P.S.

Station management, organization, production, and "on the air" skills are incorporated into an extensive curriculum in radio technology.

K.B.P.S. also won two awards. One award was for "Children's Instructional Programming".

PTA 49er Fun for All

Very special performances by Jim King II, (12), doing the fantastic locked-in-a-box and escape trick, and Greg Shook, (11), playing Chicago's hit "Saturday In The Park" on the piano, helped to make the 49er a great success.

Other superb acts were senior Bob Lovatt's selections of "Dance, Dance, Dance" and "Just Once".

Zeke's Freaks, a group of faculty members returning by popular demand from last year, played a medley of old favorites.

Tim Brusse, (11), and Katie Rafferty sang and accompanied themselves on the guitar to John Denver's hits, "Country Roads" and "Sunshine On My Shoulders".

Sophomores Mark and Todd Larsen played "Ramblin' Man" and "Flashback Blues" to make the show even more successful.

The Benson Band, directed by Mr. Harold Rowe, played a march, "The Klaxon" by Fillmore and a couple of selections "Poor Wayfaring Man" and "The Valiant Years" by Fillmore and Rodgers-Reed respectively.

The Glee Club directed by Mr. Roger Hanson, sang "Hello Dolly" by Herman, excerpts from the "Man of La Mancha", and "Hey, Look Me Over" by Coleman.

All in all, it was a wonderful night for everyone who participated.

1975 Drag Races Active

Benson won the races again and had a lot of cars participating. The races started at 4:00 pm and lasted well into the night.

Some of the other schools participating were David Douglas, Forest Grove, Grant and many others.

The Junior Class sold Tee shirts and Frizbees at the Drags.

The weather was good and the cars fast.

Outside Experiences

During the 74-75 school year students at Benson went on many varied and interesting trips.

Some of the places visited were the Freightliner assembly line, Bonniville Power Administration, Forestry Center.

Students also worked at on-site work experience with their different shop classes.

The social studies department had a lawyer at school on Law Day to answer questions.

Apathy Irks Rally

Due to a city championship season, the Football Rally enjoyed very spirited support from the Techmen fans. The Basketball rally celebrated a city championship but met with little spirit.

The football rally was composed of Gay Wiesgerber, Angel Beck, Debbie LaHaie, Leigh Hendryx, Laura Moxley, Cheryl Roberts, Dan Foster, Mark Meeker, and Mike Callanan. The basketball rally numbered Joy Hollomon, Debbie Semler, Melody Stafford, Denise Brinster, Cheri Clark, Kelly Moore, Larry Blowers, Jerry Clark, Jim Dicey, and Mark Meeker.

Last but not least was Benson's first Wrestling Rally consisting of Gloria Wallberg, Arlene Seelie, Lise Moore, and Sandy Cope.

J.V. Rally Active

The JV Basketball Rally was elected at an assembly along with the Varsity Basketball and Wrestling Rallies at Monroe. Attending the assembly and voting for the rallies were Benson and Monroe students. Out of about 14 girls running for JV Rally, six were elected by the audience. Those elected were Dana Brewer, Vickie Campbell, Julie Post, Patricia Alverson, Jesse Grenfell, and Shirley Kurtzbein.

During the year, the Rally practiced early in the mornings, before school, with the Varsity Rally to perfect their cheers. They attended all JV Basketball games and helped to create spirit.

Intramural Bowling was held on Monday nights at 4 o'clock. The activity involved 32 Bensonites and as Mr. Stewart McNeil stated, "The program was very successful."

The number one team in the league was Mike Prices' team.

Karate Is Early Morning Activity

Many students at Benson were interested in the art of self defense. So during the course of this last year Karate was offered to students every Friday morning between 7:00 and 8:00 a.m.

Mike Staley, a senior, instructed those students in the basics of Karate. The time was used to practice the various moves and positions called for in the sport Karate.

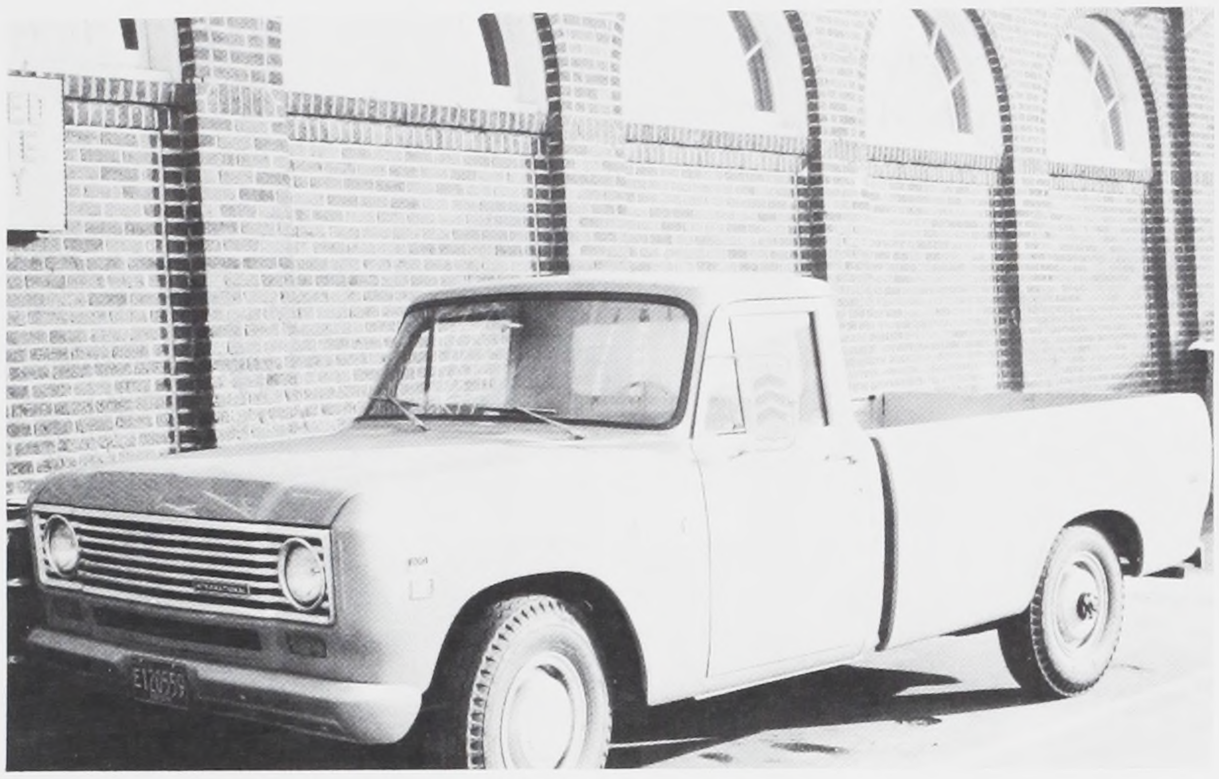
Intramural Sports Interest Many

During the year there were many opportunities to play volleyball, usually on Friday's after school. Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Walborn were the advisers and played right along with the students. Benson played Monroe and "the students from both schools had fun", stated one student.

There was a one-on-one basketball tournament which Lindsey Booker (11) won. There was also a three-man basketball team tournament.

Approximately 1500 students were involved and though there was a lot of competition everyone had fun.



Transportation Innovative, Fun

The bike races were held from the start of school until the end of November every morning before school. Each month there was a champion with Jay Graves (11) finishing over all champ. They raced on the track and many students took part. This was another intramural activity for the students of Benson.

Costs for many of the materials needed by freshman and sophomore students is kept down because the business and trade community have always thought of Benson when they have surplus materials.

Students Ride Bus to 'Hood' Snow

The skiing this year was great according to the students that went. Many students were involved and the buses were always full.

There were many varied styles and techniques used. Mr. Lopez was the faculty adviser and was the one who collected the money and made the arrangements for the bus and lift tickets at Mt. Hood Meadows.

All-in-all this year turned out to be one of the best for Benson skiers. Next year we would like more people to go. Skiing isn't the only activity up there.

Individualism Here

Clothing is an outside covering that reflects your personality.

Dressing like your buddies or like everyone else shows a lack of imagination or maybe the fact that you're afraid of what your peers may say.

Do what you want to, wear what you want to; seems to be the current trend and is reflected by lack of definite school policy. Parents now assume this responsibility.

Pep Band Sports Colorful Shirts

No game is complete without the Pep Band adding their part to the festivities. Benson's Pep Band is to be commended for the many hours they put in during the year.

Many hours of long practice are necessary to enable each member to qualify for the band.

Mr. Harold Rowe, band instructor, offers the students many years of experience and constantly seeks perfection in all members of the band.

Tech Show Gives Public Overview

Yearly Tech gives the public an overview of what goes on within the walls of Benson and also lets the people know how their money is being used to really educate their sons and daughters with skills that can be used after graduation.

This year one of the highlights of the program was the foundry and pattern project - the four foot frying pan. Each shop had displays and students operating the various machines.

In the Stage Show, another tradition, the Band and various music groups show off their skills. In addition many talented students also perform individual acts. Jim King was the Master of Ceremonies and displayed much of his magic talent.

Builds for Future

The Junior Varsity Cross Country team had a disappointing season due to a lack of participants.

The team recorded victories over Adams, Roosevelt, Cleveland, Franklin, Jefferson, and Washington. They suffered defeats to Lincoln, Jackson, Marshall, Grant, Wilson, and Madison.

The team finished seventh in city. Bill McCollum (10) and Doug Norton (10) led the team, but McCollum was promoted to the varsity early in the season.

Harriers Drop to 6th in City

After a first place showing in city last year, the Varsity Cross Country team fell to a disappointing sixth this year. They were led by Most Valuable Runner Bob Fulton, and senior Matt Neve.

"The loss of Dan Fulton and Frank Wylam really hurt us," said Coach Bud White. Bob Fulton was the only team member to go to state where he placed a creditable eighteenth.

The loss of Matt Neve will hurt the team, but Bob Fulton will return next year along with top J.V. runner Bill McCollum.

Tech had it's first female runner in freshman Virginia Wylam. Considering she was only a freshman Virginia did very well. With more experience she could be one of the top girl runners in the city.

Frosh 6-1 Season Fantastic

Both Freshmen Football teams had great seasons this year. The "A" team had a fantastic 6 win 1 loss record while the "B" team had a 5 win 1 loss record.

The "A" team boasted an outstanding defense that held it's opponents to an average of just over 11 points per game. The leading scorers were Rodney Wilder, and Kenny Savoy.

The team defeated; Jefferson, Roosevelt, Grant, Wilson, Washington, and Lincoln. The only defeat was suffered at the hands of Jackson by the score of 40 to 14.

Because of the strength of this year's freshmen and J.V. teams, the future looks promising for the varsity.

JV Football Team Named Champs

The 1975 J.V. football team was named City Champs, and went undefeated in eight games.

M.V.P. (Most valuable players) were; Joe Marshall- lineman, Mike Lowe- running back. Other outstanding performers were; Randy Springer, Mike Irish, Gary Bosch, John Farrell, Stan Langford, Duncan Davis, Danny Concannon, Mark Williams, Jerome Williams, Billy Hryciw, Mike Sherrill, and Bobby Barber.

Head Coach Melvin and Assistant Coach Pete Kusyk provided great assistance to this year's team.

Soccer New Sport

Twenty-six showed up for the first soccer practice according to Coach Gordon Riese.

Even though the team was a young one they did an outstanding competitive job.

Swimming the 200 Medley Relay, 200 Freestyle, 200 IM, 50 Freestyle, 100 Butterfly, 100 Freestyle, 100 Backstroke, 100 Breaststroke, and 400 Freestyle Relay, the team won 6 and lost to Lincoln and Wilson. There were no divers this year. All meets were held at Lewis & Clark College and practices were at Couch School.

Three girls tried out but eight are necessary to have a team.

First year Coach Harlan said, "The attitude was great."

BB Team Goes to State Finals

Benson started the season rated by the Oregon Journal as No. 2 team, but the first game left some doubt since Benson took Jesuit by 19 points. Coach Gray was not satisfied and said, "We're in good shape, but we're not very well organized."

Next Benson toppled Beaverton by 10 points in the second pre-season match. Mark Hoisington, Rick Raivio and Mike Brannon were the leaders in the Benson attack. Still Coach Gray was not satisfied with the defense.

In a little tighter game, reserve forward Gary Wohlers tossed in 10 points in the fourth period to tip the scales for Benson against Washington, 59-53.

Six-foot, nine inch Mark Hoisington sustained an ankle injury in the Jefferson game. Three Bensonites were hot for this game and finished the game with high points to their credit; Hoisington 25, Raivio 16, and Mike Brannon 14.

During the Christmas holidays, the team travelled to Hawaii to clean up on Iolani and Kailua (84-69 and 79-78).

"The 'Big Hand' (Hoisington) psyched my kids out and they shot scared", stated Wilson Coach Crandall. The end gun score was 83-56.

The hustling Generals were unable to stop Raivio who took to the boards during the second half to earn 14 of his 19 points. Michael Brannon held Grant's leading scorer, Rich Johnson, to eight pts.

Even though Jackson tried hard to best the Techmen and their 27 game win streak, they were unable to do it so lost 47-45.

The PIL title was Benson's after they tallied 87 points over Madison's 68 at the Memorial Coliseum. This gave Benson it's third straight PIL League basketball crown. Benson canned 56% of its shots and even Coach Ole Johnson (Madison admitted that a 6'9", 200 lb, quick as a cat player like Hoisington, was hard to counteract).

Making the Oregon Journal's AAA All-State team were Hoisington, and Raivio. Hoisington was also named the PIL's Most Valuable Player.

The sun set on Benson as the Apollos played a tough man-to-man game and effectively kept all the Benson players tied down to tally up a winning score of 78-62.

The "King" may have been dethroned in '75 but "there are a lot of tall, talented freshmen coming up" according to Coach Gray who will fill the void left by the graduating Hoisington.

Dave Peake, honorary manager for Tournament made the '74 team and played in the '74 Tournament but was forced to the sidelines by an illness which threatened his life.

Basketball's great season gave Benson a lot of recognition throughout the state as did the school's energetic football team. Both teams show what dedication and the desire to win can do.

JV Uses Fast Break, Press

The J.V. Basketball team had a successful season (19-3) which was attributed to a pressing full court defense, a fast break orientated offense and an overall team attitude to hustle.

Terence Burns was the most valuable player. He seemed to ignite the team with his rebounding, pressing defense and overall leadership. Tim Brusse played well the last half of the season. Greg Noe has the potential of becoming a fine basketball player.

Gary Dunn, Terry Dixson, and Mike Lowe divided the playing time for the two guard positions. Their quickness and pressing ability will definitely help the 75-76 Varsity Club.

Frosh Team Shows Spirit

Benson's Frosh team had a good year winning 8 and losing 4. They took third in the City Meet and had three City Champs: Chris Hughes, Tim Lee, and Kerry Jobe.

"Even though we were short in numbers, the ones we had were boys with a lot of spirit. At the Franklin meet, for instance, the match was 37-0 at one point but the team came back strong to win 40-37," commented Mr. Surbrook.

J.V. Lacks Depth

During the PIL League season the JV Wrestling team lost only to Madison. In other matches they lost to St. Helens, Wilson, Jackson, and Washington.

Coach Hughes said the most valuable players were Bill Hryciw, Tom Feller, John Donas, and Pat McCabe who was also the JV Captain.

Injuries and lack of numbers hampered the team all season. The few regulars who showed up regularly had a lot of spirit and determination. For instance, Dalsing who came in late went to the District tourney.

Sometimes the team was strong and sometimes it was weak since team members are always challenging members of the varsity for positions in a meet.

Techmen Take Out Franklin in City

Brian Zimmerman (12) took third in State and also qualified for the U.S. National Wrestling Tournament held in Illinois during the summer. Even though this was a highlight, the team had other outstanding wrestlers; Mike Gillen (123 lbs), Bill Wallberg (130), Dave Brown (157), Tim Gleason (168), Carl Dean (178), Arvo Henifin (HW), and Kelvin Onchi (115).

The Varsity won 13 and lost 1 and earned 262 points in the St. Helen's Tournament. In the City Meet against Franklin, the Techmen lost 35 to 25 but pins were made by Dave Brown (148), Pat McCabe (157), Arvo Henifin (H.W.)

Gymnasts Provide Sports Action

Starting the season with seniors Rick Weber (all events), Jim King (sidehorse) and Jeff Sjodin (parallel bars), and some talented juniors, the Gymnastics team had an active year. They were also supported by a very large turnout of freshmen.

After winning the match against Roosevelt Coach Ranta commented, "It is always nice to win the first match of the season." It was Mr. Ranta's first year as gymnastics coach.

Individual performance is highly important in this sport if a team is to win, according to Mr. Bart Chase.

Clubs: One of Fun Activity Offerings

Eight clubs were active during the '74-'75 school year at Benson.

The National Honor Society had a bike trip in the fall and skiers went to Mt. Hood during the winter.

Other active clubs have been Key Club which prepared about 30 christmas baskets for the needy at Christmas time.

Frere' Club took part in the 49er as did the Iron Horsemen. Frere' also assisted a black athlete to make a special trip in December.

Noon movies have been the responsiblilty of BATS. They have also acted as stage crew for outside professional groups using the auditorium.

Math Important to Aardvarks

The Aarkvarks are a group of experienced computer programmers who work for the betterment of the school's computer system.

The Aardvarks is an honorary club where members are elected on their programming ability and interest. Membership currently stands at 15 with four graduating. Every year they run demonstrations and programs for the public at the 49er and Tech show. At other times, the members work on their own projects. This year two of the Aardvarks, Glenn Sage and Frank Barberis, won first and second prize respectively in the computer science division of the National Association for Educational Data Systems contest.

Tech Pep Gains Higher Status

"We did better than last year, but we still have a long ways to go before we can consider ourselves a strong newspaper," was the conclusion Mr. William Stocking, adviser of the Tech Pep Staff, made of this year's Tech Pep Newspaper Staff. There were more good feature stories than last year, but sports was still weak.

The staff published a total of 14 issues, plus a special senior issue.

The staff started out with twelve staff members and ended with ten. Jay Edwards, first half editor, graduated early and went into the service. His duties were taken over by Mark Meeker. This was changed in February as Mark Meeker became In-depth Editor and Don Richardson became Editor.

This move was made to strengthen feature articles and create articles for the insert page.

Since the staff was all seniors, a whole new staff will replace this year's staff.

'Go Power' Lost

The year book staff had to change their delivery date to the fall because of not meeting proper deadlines for the pages to be sent to the company. A factor was an extremely small staff.

This yearbook is like a business; ads had to be sold to pay for extras such as color pages and embossing of the cover. Many forms had to be filled out for picture requests and pictures made to size. Copy had to be written, pages checked and then rechecked when the company sent back the proofs.

Honors Recognize Top Students

National Junior Honor Society (NJHS) exists to offer recognition for freshmen, sophomores who achieve high academic achievement.

President Brent Dahl arranged several activities for the club which included an information booth at the Tech Show and ushering duties at Commencement.

To be a member of the society a student must maintain a 3.5 grade point average or better.

Mrs. Margret Tonsfeldt who retired this year, was the adviser.

The Honor Society for juniors and seniors maintained the Honor Roll board and had a bike hike early in the year.

During the year the Optimists select several high school students from the metropolitan area. Jay Buckingham, Carl Dean, Bill Finzer, and Jeff Sievert were all selected for this honor.

Mrs. Florence Meagher, counselor, is adviser for this group.

Chess Club Meets for Fun, Competition

Chess Club was without an adviser this year but they still met in Mrs. Cook's room.

They had meets with Monroe, Rex Putnam, David Douglas and several other competing groups.

According to members the group won about as many competitive meets as they lost.

Choral Groups Promote School

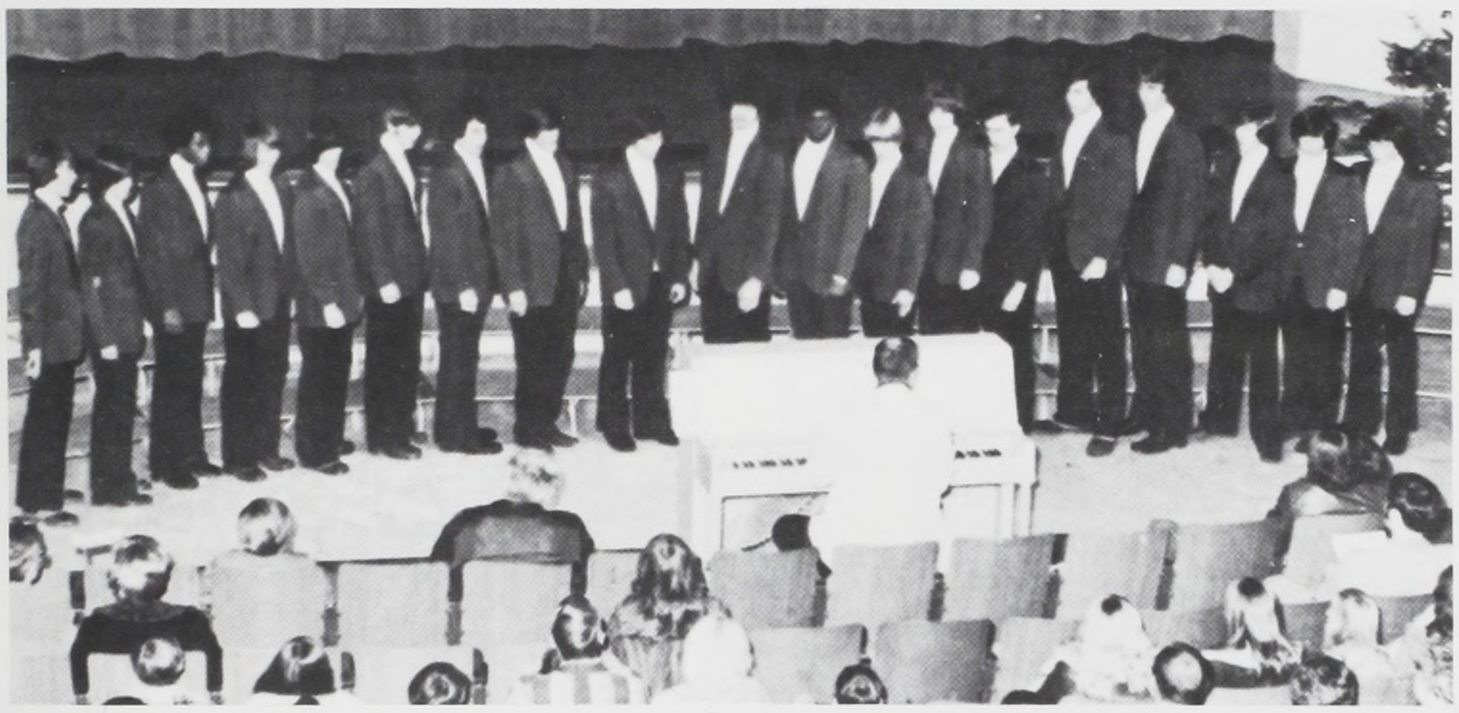
Benson has two groups which help to promote the Benson story to the community: the band and the choral groups.

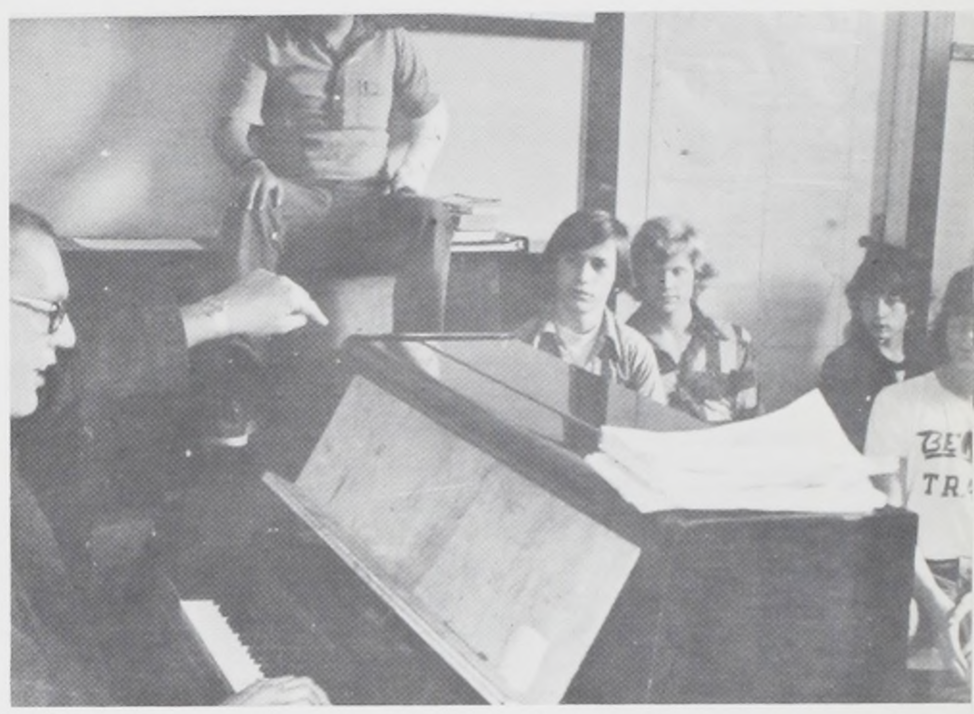
Mr. Roger Hanson has Glee Club, Ambassadors and a new group called Stage One Choral Group.

The largest group is the Glee with the most accomplished group being the Ambassadors.

Mr. Hanson takes groups to various grade schools when invited and, along with the band, is the mainstay of many programs like the 49er, the Tech Show, and the Spring Concert.

The groups practice either in the band portable or in a small dressing room just behind the stage area.



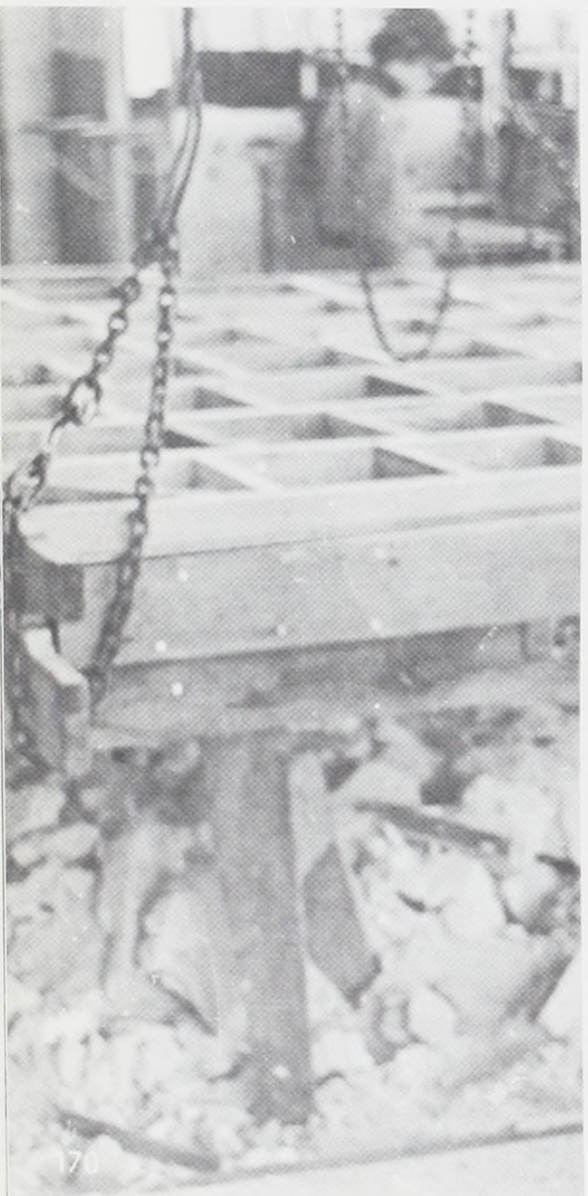


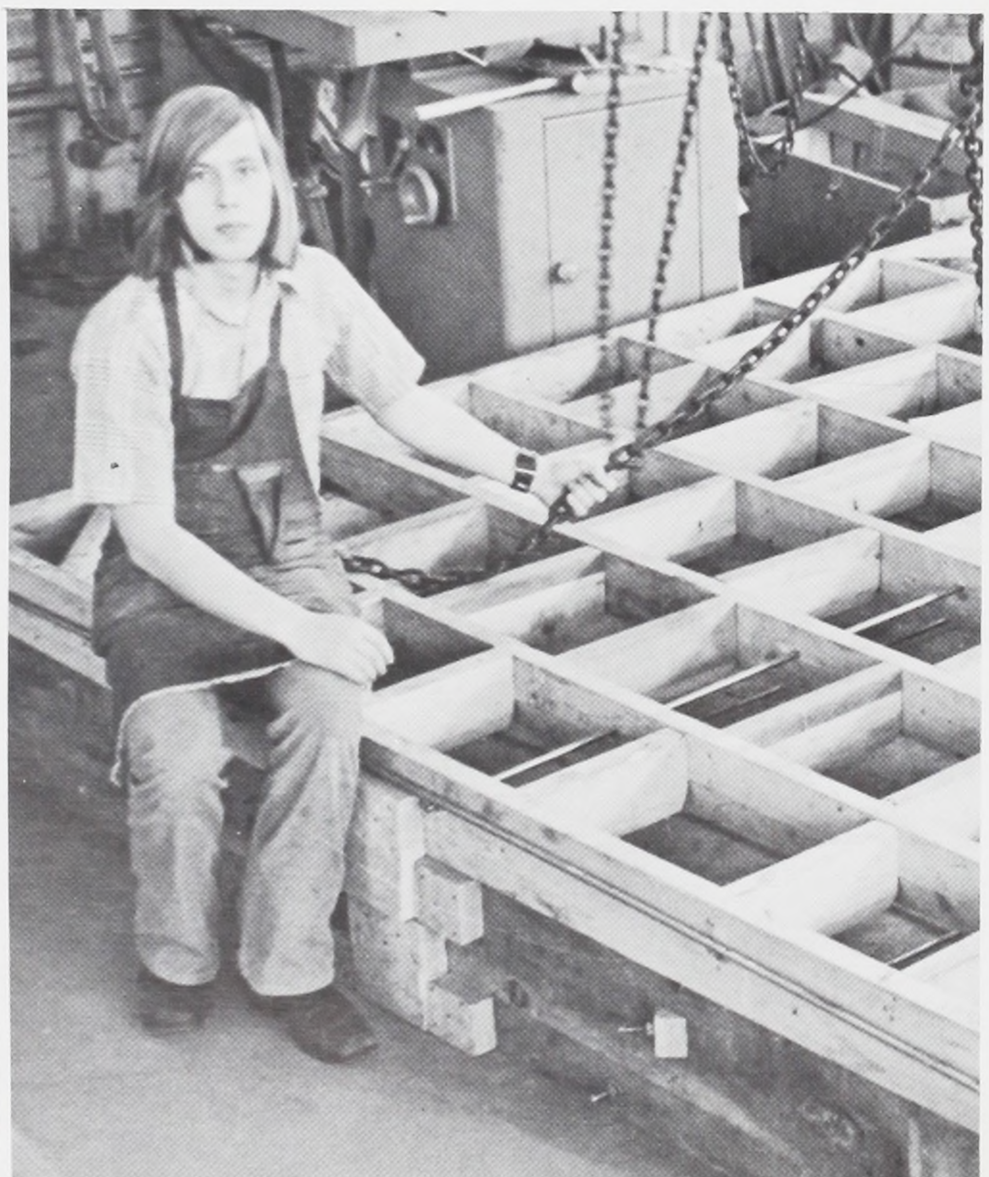
Student Money Supports Others

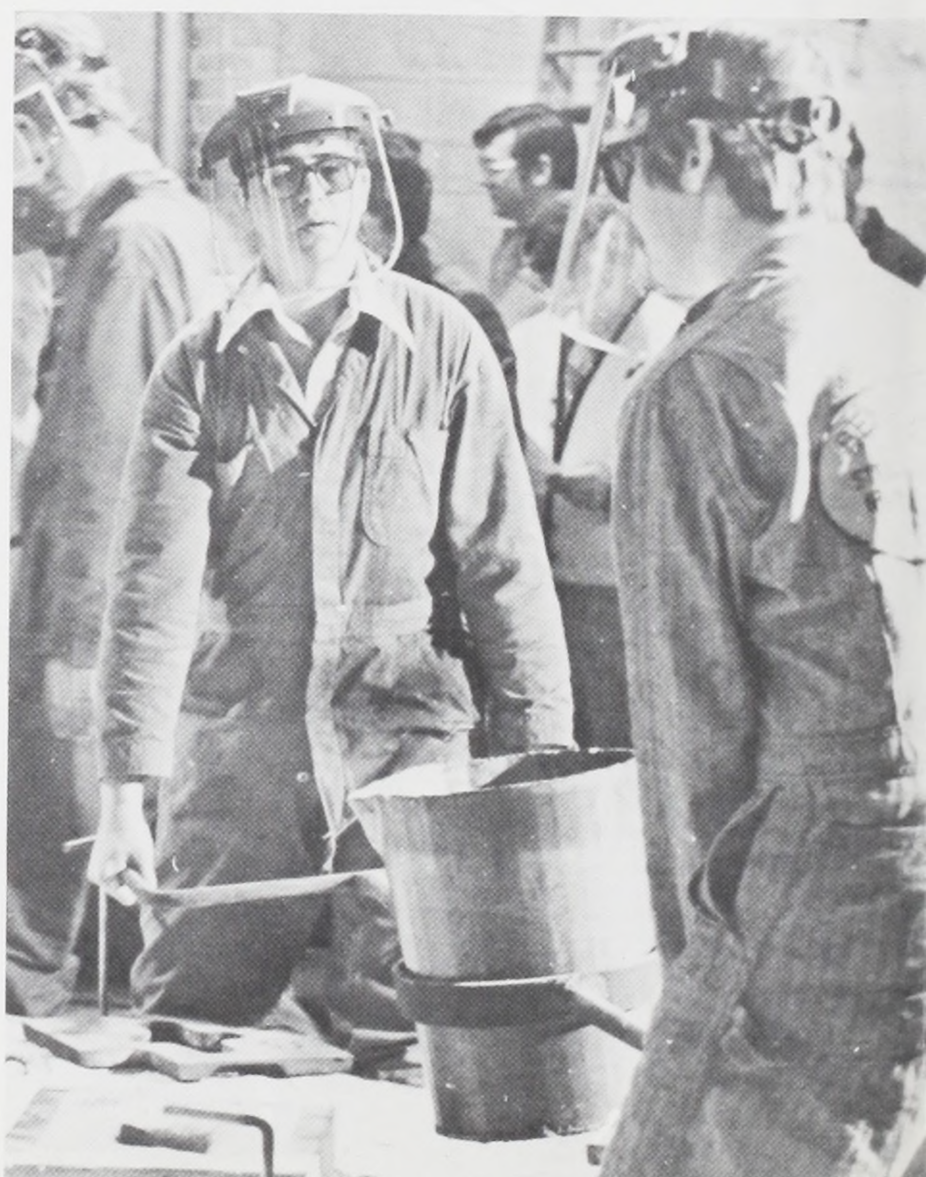
Taking part in the 49er with a record and cake walk was only one of the projects planned by the Frere' Club this year. Also planned was a basketball game between Frere' Club members and faculty.

Raising money to help other Black students attend college and take trips was another of their goals.

Frere' Club members pose on front lawn.







Fry Pan Project Yearly High Point

Creating the Worlds' Largest Aluminum Frying Pan was the major project of the Pattern and Foundry departments this year. Despite a failure in the last of January when the sand mold collapsed crushing the pattern, persistence paid off and a successful cast was made on February 25.

Mr. Frank Williams and Mr. Joe Perry were instructors in charge.

Technical Crew Provides Service

The Benson Auditorium Technical Staff commonly called BATS, are an important part of the school. They run all the assemblies, evening shows, and PTA meetings. They also run the noon movie.

Their function is to see that every group both school and community, has all the things they need for their meetings when the stage and auditorium is used.

Train Buffs Erect Model Layout

The Iron Horseman Club was formed to enable students with an interest in model railroad building to study, discuss and work on the project.

Mr. Ruben Fischer, a science teacher, serves as adviser to the group and has a corner of his room allocated to the model train layout created by the students.

The club meets weekly in Room H 209.

Students do prescribed exercises from a typing book and learn other facts that will help them whether they enter business or go on to college.

Mrs. Margarat Tonsfeldt who retired this year, was department chairman.

Zoo Gets Plaque

Wanting to honor its well-know elephant-Thonglaw, the Portland Zoo approached Benson for help. They had a drawing of the elephant but needed a bronze plaque showing how many elephants Thonglaw had sired.

First it went to the Art Department where Steve Funk made a clay model from the drawing. Many steps were involved but after making a rubber mold and then a plaster model, it was sent to the foundry where a bronze casting was made. Prior to the actual casting Mr. Perry, Pattern Shop teacher, set the type to be used in the casting.

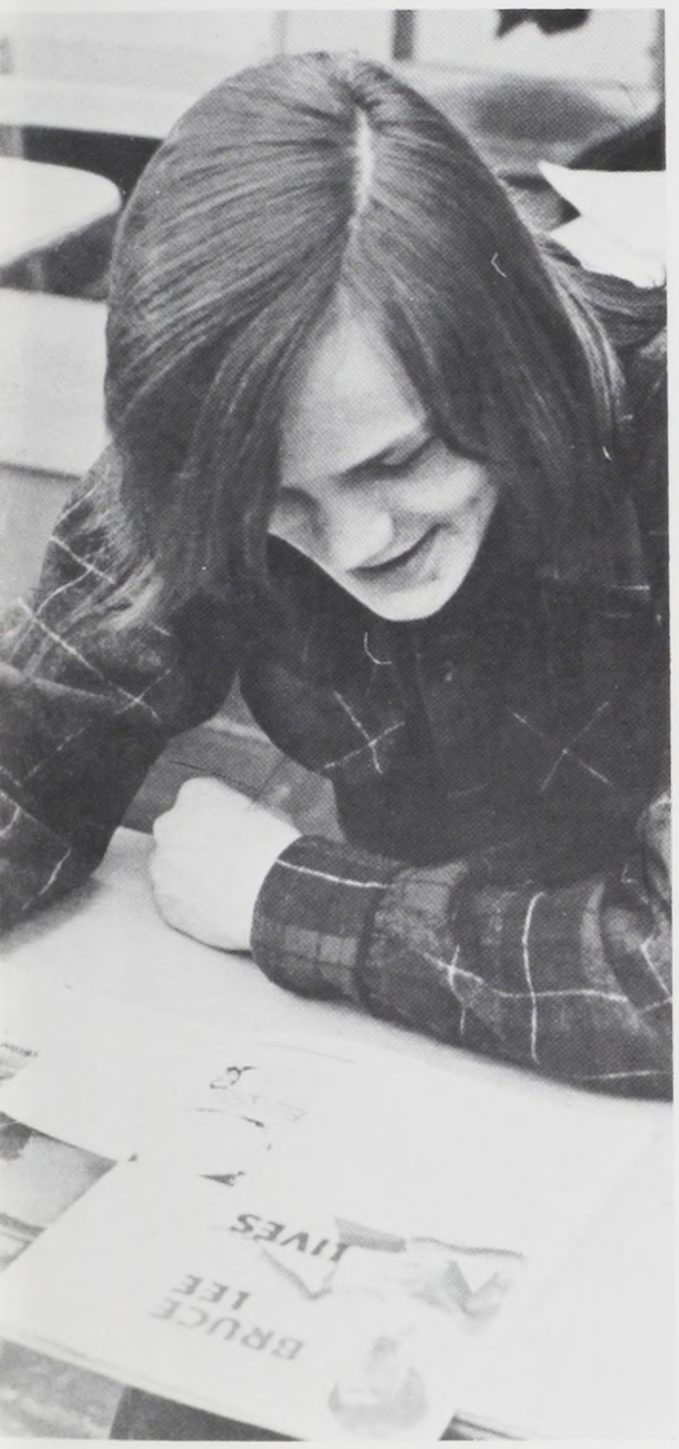
Students Discover English Interesting

The English department at Benson is one of the best in Portland. English is required for four years. At Benson an attempt is made to make the course as lucrative and as instructive as possible.

One example of an innovation in an English Course, is the new Science Fiction Literature class which is taught by Mrs. Alma Thompson. In Mrs. Faulkner's sophomore English the students have been studying the structures and styles of poetry. Writing for the yearbook is a form of English, but no English credit is awarded. However, writing for the school newspaper does qualify for credit. The writing is done by students and proofread by student editors.

English is a very important course, and all the teachers try to make the class interesting so that English is enjoyed as well as learned.

When the time comes for a student to leave Benson, English classes are remembered as an important part of education.



P.E., Health Has Many Offerings

P.E. and Health are required and enjoyed classes at Benson. Students are also able to take Driver's Education.

P.E. gives students a chance to learn about various games since rules are part of the instruction.

Stretching and using muscles helps to keep the body fit and the mind more receptive to what is being taught in the classroom.

Everything isn't physical however, since health enables students to learn about good health practices, take tests, and time for discussion.

Band Misses Rose Parade

For the first time in many years the Benson Band did not appear in the Rose Festival parade. However they still played at the Tech Show, 49'er, Yule-tide Sing, and at other schools in the city.

The Pep Band was out-standing as usual. They played at the home basket-ball games including those at the state tournament.

The band was under the direction of Mr. Harold Rowe and had a lot of fun this year but still missed out on the grand finale of marching in the Rose Festival parade.

Techmen Take Top Math Prizes

Benson has always had the reputation of having an excellent math department, and for having turned out several math contest winners.

This past year was no exception. No fewer than eight Techmen received math letters, along with state and national prizes.

Wayne Burton was named the outstanding freshman math student.

Outstanding sophomore was David Wise who also made the State Honor Roll.

Sam Cannady was named top junior math student, and in addition to making the State Honor Roll, he was an all-city math tournament semi-finalist.

Jim Tursa was the top senior math student and was the top Benson student in the National Mathematics contest. He was also the second place senior in the all-city math tournament.

Senior David Vann was the first place senior in the City Math Tournament, and fellow senior, McKinley Williams, was fourth.

Juniors, Frank Barberis and Glenn Sage, won national prizes for work in computer programming.

Good Citizenship Aim of Study

The aim of the Benson Social Studies department is to instill good citizenship practices in it's students. The teachers hope this will help the students when they leave high school.

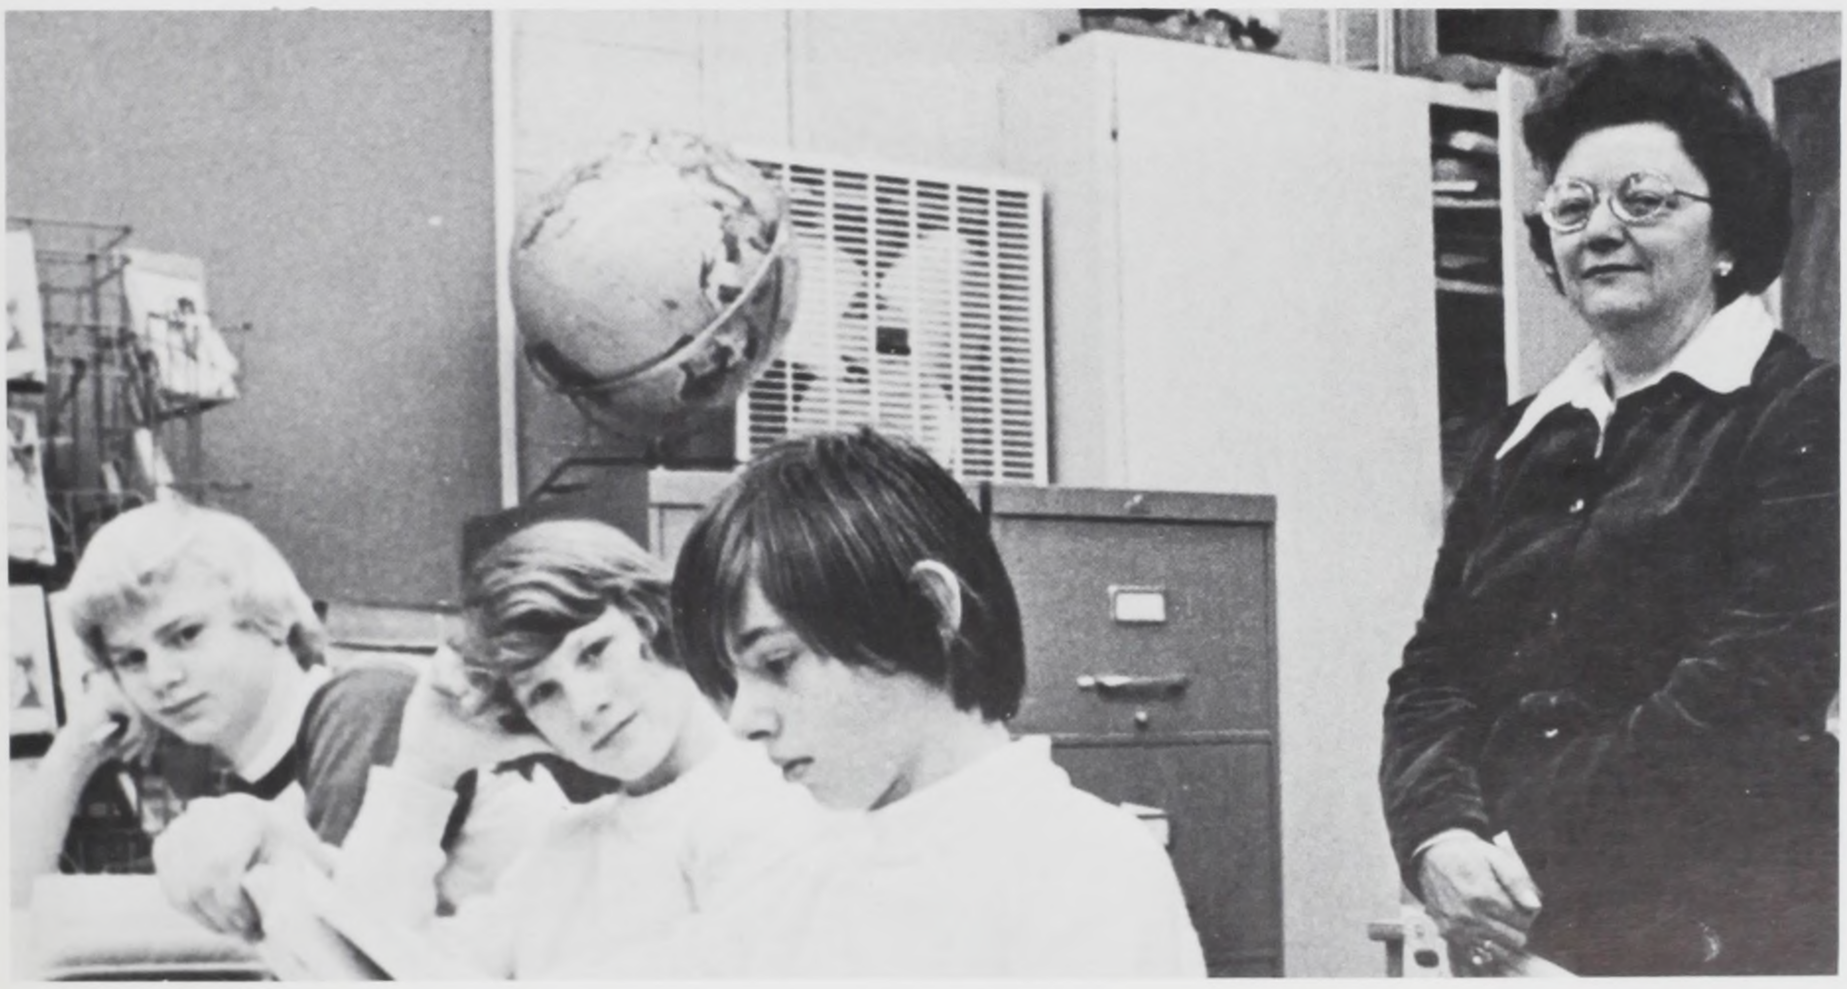
Freshmen studied world history and cultures.

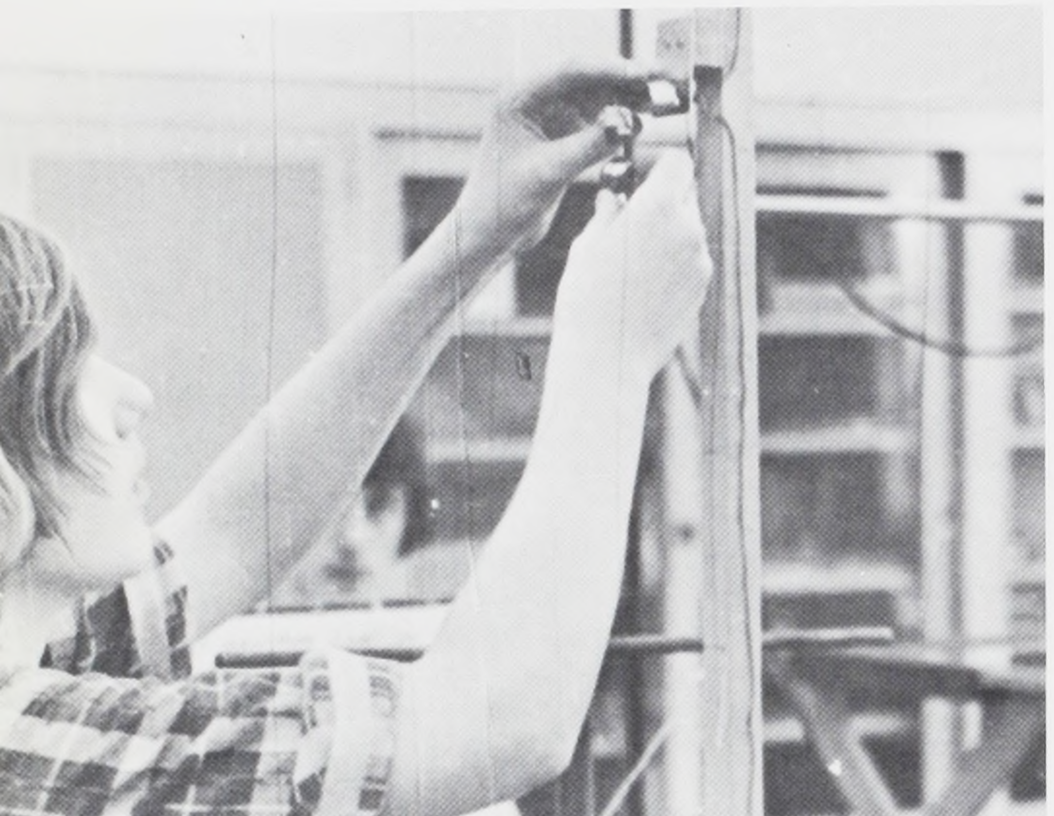
Juniors delved into American history to find out about our country's development and heritage.

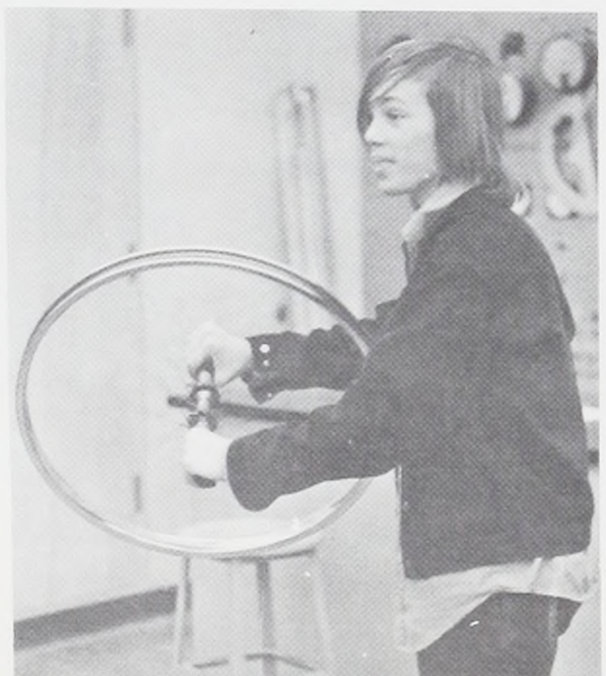
The seniors went deeply into the aspects of American government.

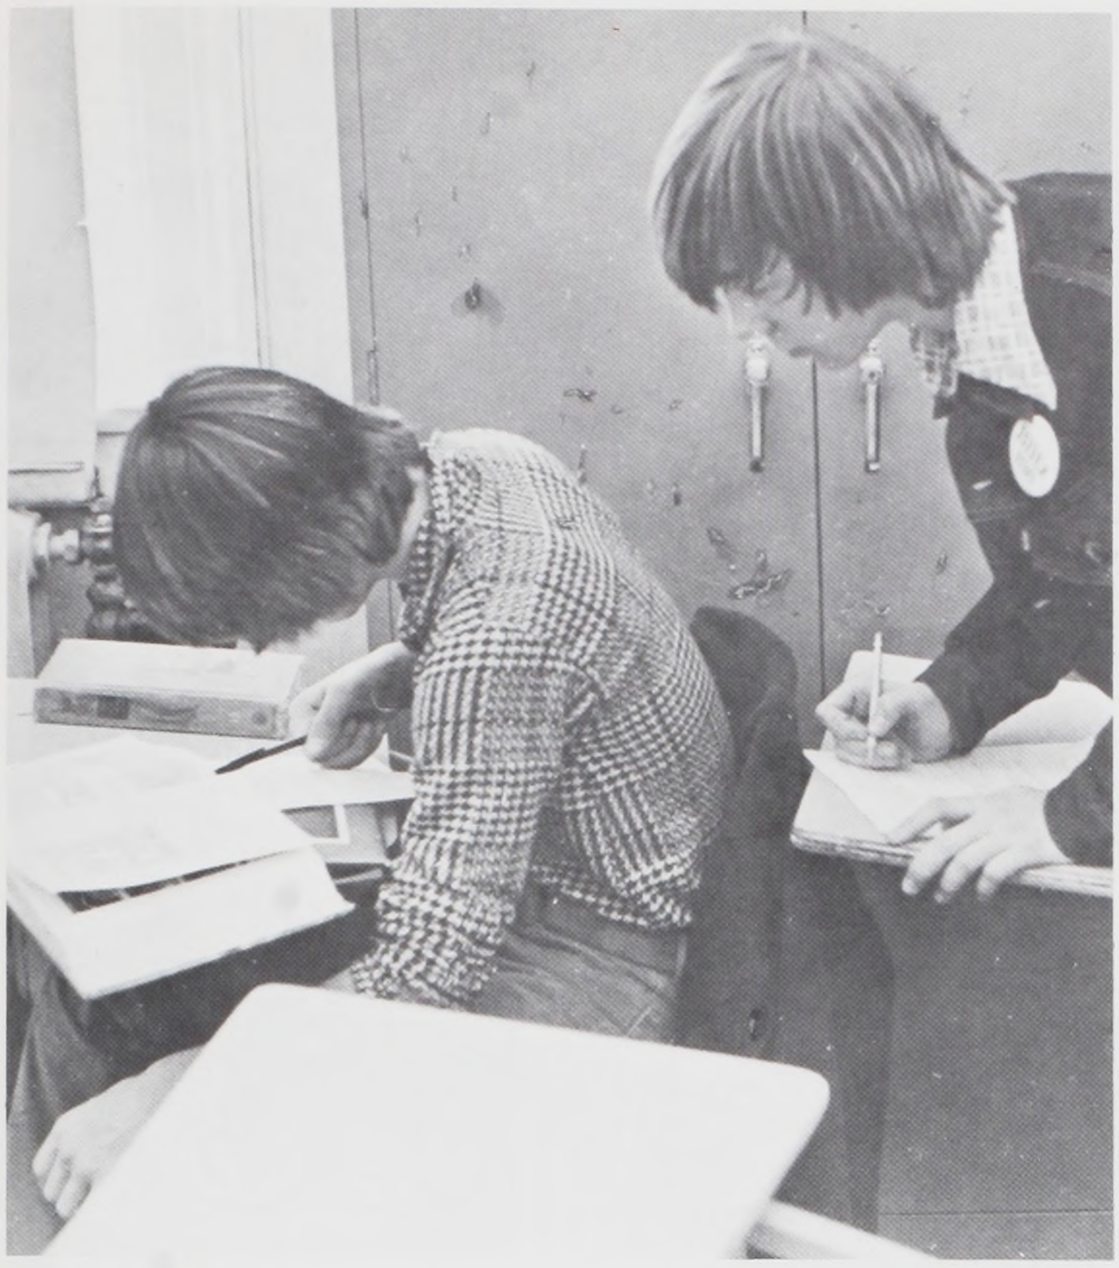
Sophomores take drafting in place of social studies.

Some freshmen classes made elaborate projects for Tech Show.









Science Interests Inquisitive Boys

Science students really went all out for the Tech Show this year as in evidenced by the many projects pictured on these two pages.

After freshman biology students may branch off into many different fields of science-integrated science, physics, chemistry and engineering problems.

Naturally inquisitive, the boys of Benson get as interested in science courses as they do in their shop courses. College bound students realize that mastery of science is very important.

Golfers Hot; One to State

The Golf team, coached by Mr. Bart Chase, had one of their best years ever this past season.

The team finished second in the west division for the third straight year behind Wilson, the only team to defeat them in counting matches. Benson finished in a tie for fourth in the city tournament.

The squad was led by junior John Filip, who posted a 9-3 dual meet win-loss record. (including pre-season). He qualified for the state tournament by shooting a 74 in the district tourney.

The team's players were picked by an elimination method. Players hoping for berths competed for eight spots. The six with the best scores were chosen, leaving two alternates.

Matches were played at Eastmoreland, Rose City, Progress Downs, and West Delta.

Next year looks good for Tech golf.

Graduation Brings Dreams to Life

Baccalaureate Services this year were sponsored by the PTA and Dads' Club and were well attended by both graduates and parents. A reception followed in the cafeteria.

Originally the Benson Ambassadors were scheduled to perform but at the last minute another group was used.

Graduation was held at the city auditorium and was a galla affair for all. Tickets were issued to all students for parents and friends, with a few extra ones available for grads who had a large number of friends who wished to attend.

'Ready to Live' Prom Theme

The Benson Senior Prom was held Friday, May 23 at the Jantzen Beach Thunderbird in the Riverview Ballroom. The theme was "Ready To Live". Approximately 155 couples attended.

The special event started at 7:30 PM and dinner was served at 8:00.

Providing entertainment was Benson's Magician James King III, who kept his audience in complete amazement. Playing for the prom was "Machine". Dancing on the ballroom's floating dance floor was suppose to start at 8:30, but due to a late start caused by a traffic jam on the freeway "Machine" played a half-hour longer till 1:00 AM.

Frosh Emphasis on Individual

Benson's Track Team had a good season taking 6th in the City. They had a 5-1 League record and placed second in the West PIL Division. Their only defeat was to Lincoln.

High points of the season were Anthony Gilmore's long jump of 20'8", and Larry Kordosky's jump of 20'2". The mile relay team of Farrell, Ferrarin, Horn, and Savoy was strong and possibly set a new school record. Bob Fulton took 3rd in City Meet and 18th in State in Cross Country. Virginia Wylam took 6th in the City Meet on a two mile course. At State she took 16th.

Baseball Team Finishes Second

The Baseball team had a good season finishing second in the West Division with a record of 15-10. Benson had two players make the first team All-Stars. They were Steve Weitzel (12) 2nd base and Paul Westrup (12) pitcher.

The home run hitters this year were Tom Dodd (11), Doug Beeber (12), Don Zeidlach (12). Tom Dodd tied for best hitter in the division.

"There are many returning players so Benson should be strong in their division next season", commented Coach Ranta.

Tennis Has On-Off Year

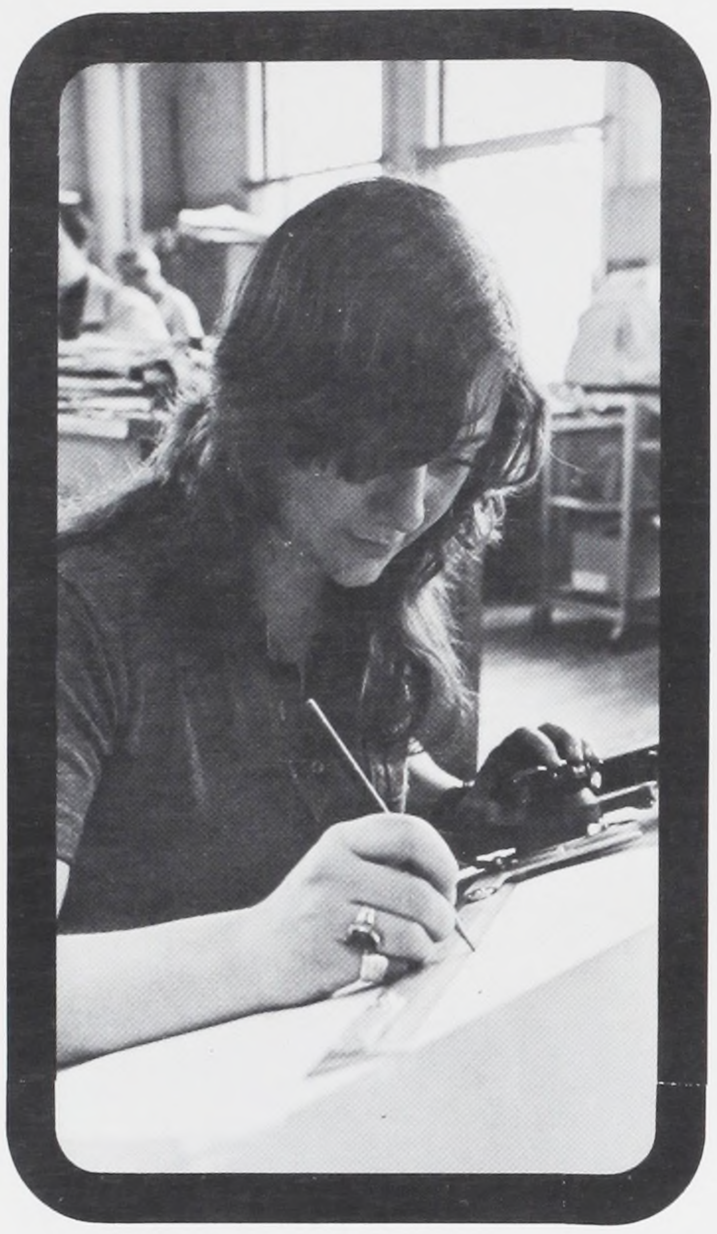
The 1975 Tennis season was one of disappointment, especially for the team's two seniors; Mark McKeon and Roger Lewis. They were two of the best singles players in the city.

Lewis held down the number one singles spot on the team for the first half season, and McKeon the second half was number one.

In the city championships they teamed in doubles and were upset by a Grant team in three sets and lost their chance to advance to state.

The team was strong in singles with Lewis, McKeon, and junior Jay Graves, but lacked experience in doubles.

Next year's team will be more experienced but the loss of McKeon and Lewis will hurt.

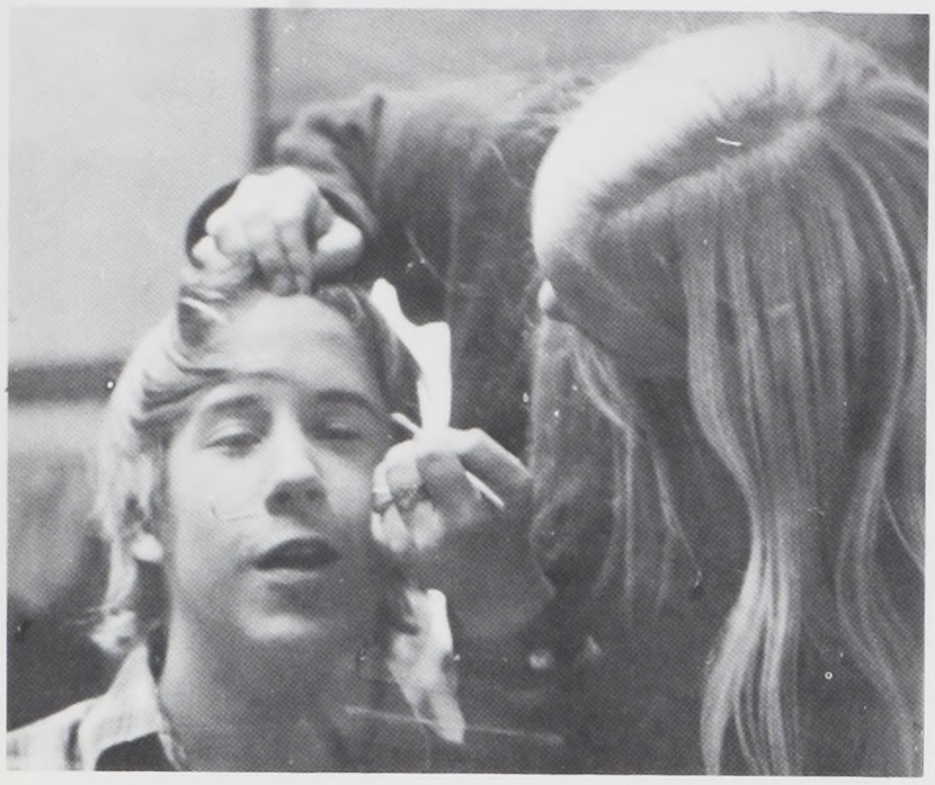


CONCLUSION

As the sun goes down on another hot day, it reminds you that there have been many days like it lately and the cool of the night slowly crawling in over the city brings to mind memories of last summer.

You wonder briefly what's in store this summer. Job? Car? Trip? Girls? Money? Who knows?

Memories are what yearbooks are made of, and although 1974-75 had its share of bad ones, we, the staff, hope that the 1974-75 Blueprint will hold some of the better ones for you to remember always.



The Faculty and Students at Benson Polytechnic High School wish to thank the following people and firms that have contributed materials to the shops this year.

Professional Engineer Awards

Growing through service . . .

Ross Hollywood Chapel one of the Northwest's finest and most beautiful mortuaries, located in Hollywood in the heart of Portland.

Your lasting tribute to a departed loved one may be offered in beautiful surroundings and in an atmosphere of sympathy and understanding at the Ross Hollywood Chapel. Each year more and more families select our services. Conducted in dignity and reverence.
A funeral service in the Ross Hollywood Chapel is always conducted in exact accordance with the family wishes . . . and at a cost within its means. We serve the city and state with our own fleet of cars.

Three Retire

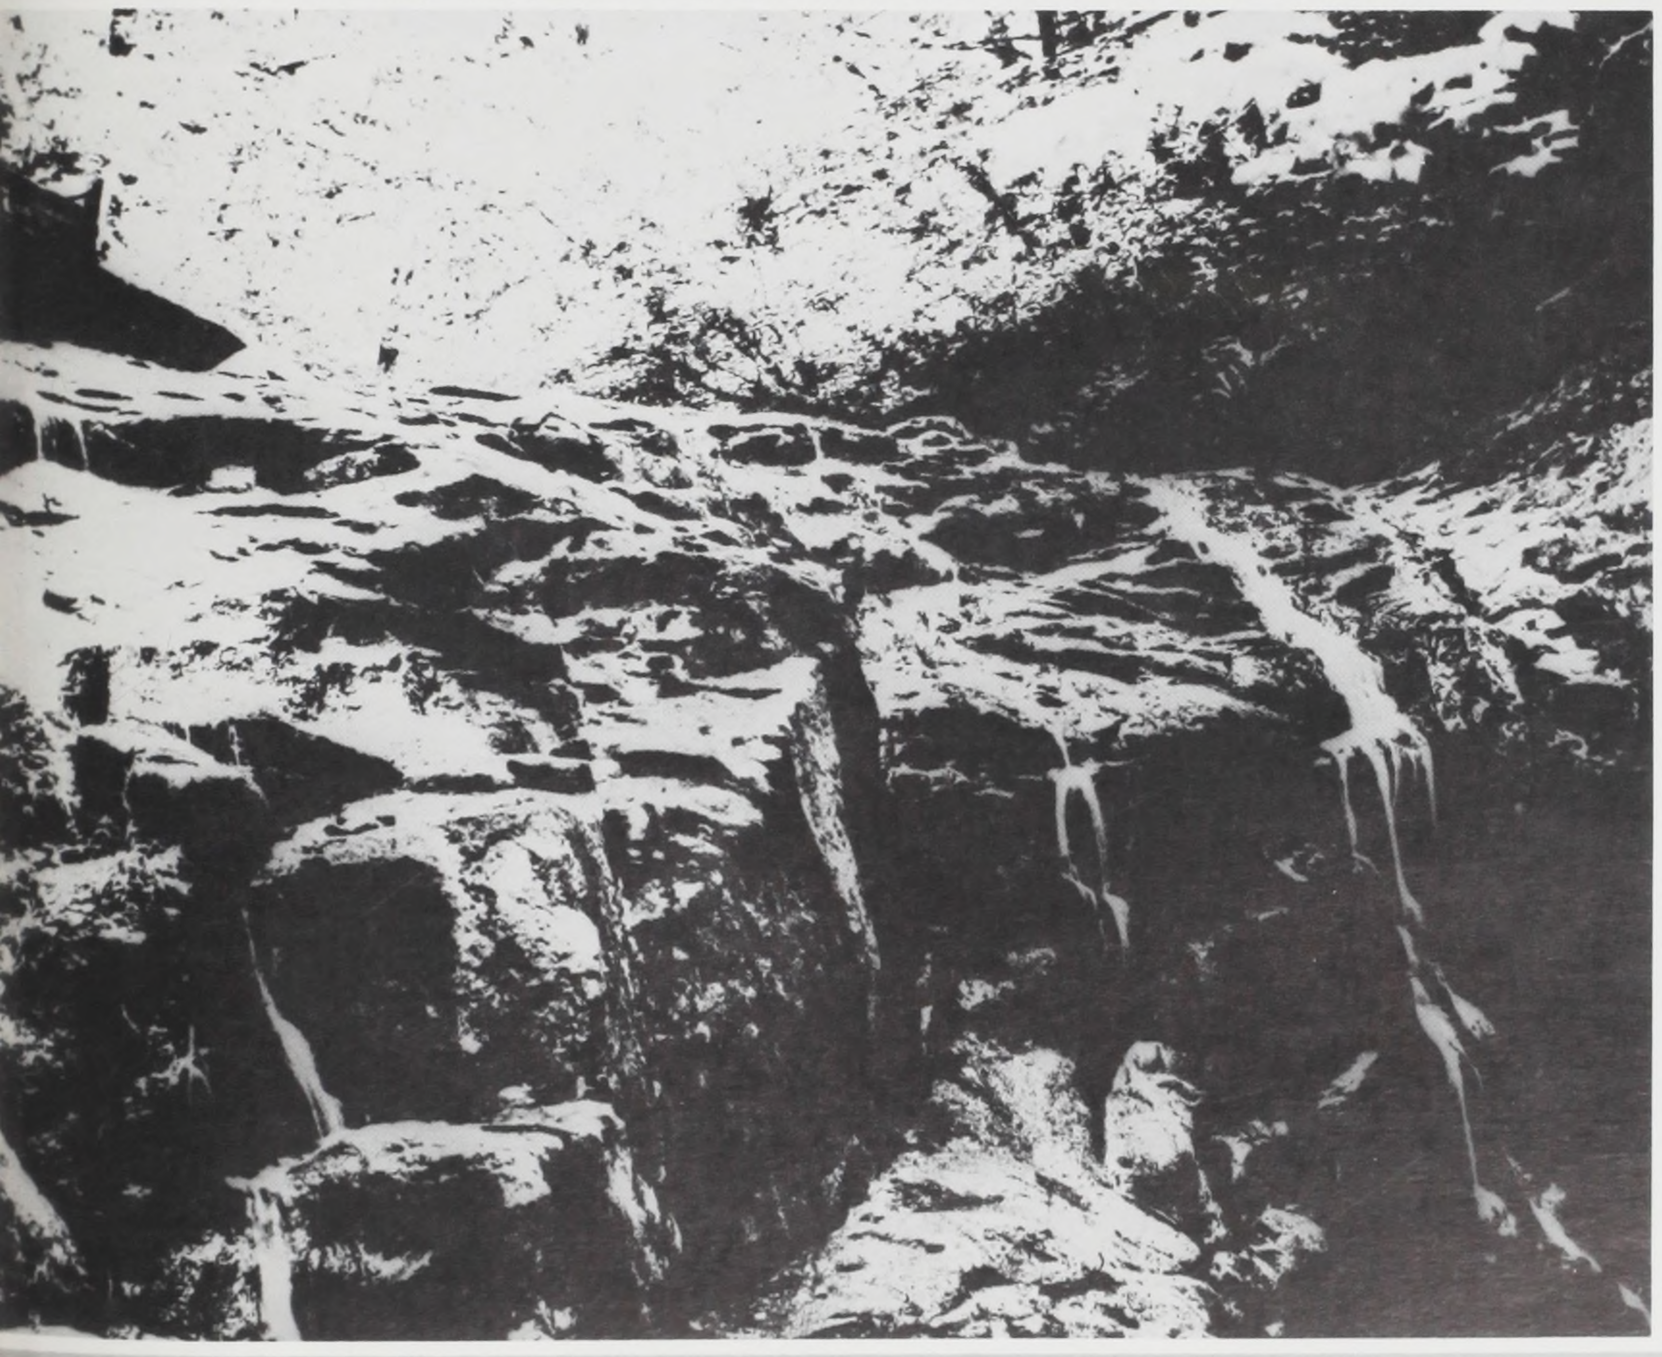
1975 saw three teachers retire from Benson.

Mrs. Margaret Tonsfeldt pulled a surprise retirement which was not announced until the PTA/ Faculty luncheon on the last day of school for teachers. She has taught the important courses of accounting, business law, general business, and typing, and was Business Education Department Chairman. She also devoted many hours to working with the Junior Honor Society.

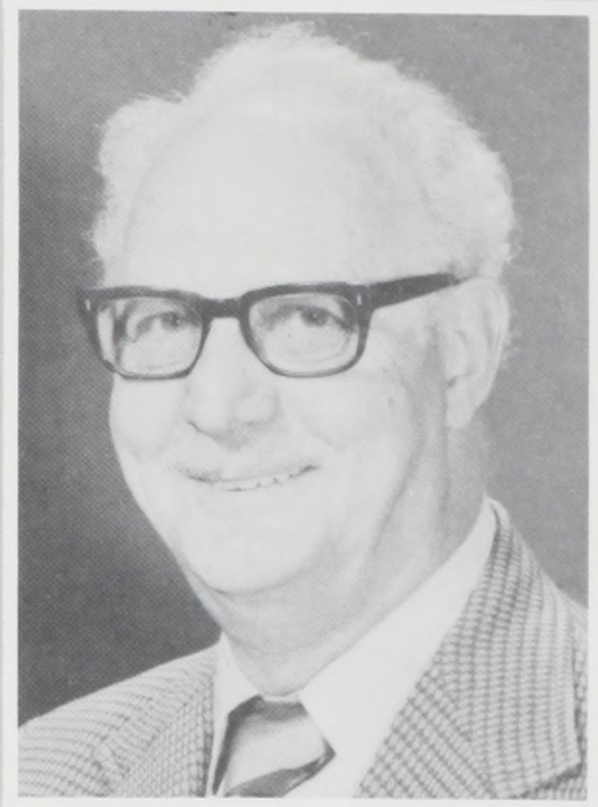
Mr. Marty Allen came to Benson after a interesting career in the printing business and was instrumental in making many changes in the printing department. He hopes to spend much of his time working on hobbies.

Mr. William Nichols spent many years at Benson building the aviation department to its present status. He remembers teaching in the old WWI buildings that used to hold many of Benson's shops. He hopes to continue in aviation even after retirement.

The building will not seem the same without their friendly faces. They will sorely be missed by students, faculty and staff.



Mrs. Margaret Tonsfeldt



Mr. Martin Allen
